THIS HUMBLE WORK ON KINDRED PURSUITS

IS CORDIALLY INSCRIBED.

BROOKLINE, Mass., September, 1871.

*Si quel un a commis quelque crime odieux,
S' il a tué son père, ou blasphémé les dieux,
Qu' il fasse un lexicon ! S' il est supplice au monde
Qui le punisse mieux, je veux que l' on me tonde.*

By way of

PREFACE,

I beg the reader to observe that I now publish only the first part of a work, the idea whereof suggested itself to my mind whilst I was cataloguing my private library. But, indeed, as the work was growing in my hands, I felt that which words, 'tis true, apply in a direct sense to him of the ferula ; yet, when I read them first, they were applied to himself by a lexicographer, who had labored under difficulties very much akin to that of my cataloguing.

Be that as it may, I intend—adeste superi!—to publish a list of works written by Catholics and published in these United States. I divide my list in five parts, as follows :

- I. Works written by Catholics, and published previous to 1820 incl.
- II. “ Original,
- III. “ Translated,
- IV. “ Republications, } from 1821 to 1873 incl.
- V. Addenda.

To this work I have allotted all subsecivas horas for some years, while it has also happened that at times I could not copy one single title for months. Duties too sacred to be neglected kept me busy at something else. The most favorable time for work was when an old-fashioned N. E. rheumatism (envious friends most perversely call it podagra!—my physician assures me on oath 'tis a slander) would at stated times confine me to an otium cum dignitate, days, weeks, and months, on a venerable arm-chair in my library. Fortunately, whilst the underpins of the animal fabric were all ablaze, the upper story was cool and free, ready to take in storage day and night. In sooth, it has been my harvest time. It has reminded me forcibly of the ancient saw, to wit: " 'Tis an ill wind," etc.

I am under profound obligations to the Rt. Rev. Prelates who never tired with my importune demands for information, although they had often to search old records and write lengthy epistles. Many clergymen have also furnished me with valuable items. Among my correspondence I treasure letters from eminent laymen of all denominations. In only three instances have I been disappointed. But I can find a very satisfactory excuse for not receiving a reply: my letters were most assuredly miscarried. In only one instance a friend wrote "not to bother him any more." Amenities of literature!

Most earnestly do I beg of all who may feel an interest in the work to favor me, either by letter to my publisher or to myself, or through the press, with any correction, suggestion, or addition. I shall most gratefully make use of, and acknowledge them in the Addenda—for "blessed be the mending hand!"

The greatest pleasure I have found in the irksome work was when I discovered historical or biographical items which, I flatter myself, may one day prove useful to a competent historian of the Catholic Church in America—a work the sooner commenced, the better.

In one element my list is deficient: I mean the German element. My knowledge of the German language being rather inadequate for the task of examining books written in it, and some applications I have made having failed of their aim, I have had very little chance of adding the titles of German authors to my list. Should my work fall under the eye of some scholar who feels an interest in the matter, it will afford me great pleasure to place such titles as may be sent to me or to my publisher among the Addenda, faithfully crediting the contributors.

This seems to me the best fitting place to give some account of Bernard Dornin, to whom the place of honor will most assuredly be given amongst the earliest Catholic publishers in this country. Mathew Carey has done a great deal; but Mr. Carey devoted his energy and his talents and his money to every kind of publications. Mr. Dornin was the first exclusively Catholic publisher. For the following, alas! very scanty information I am indebted to Commodore Thomas Aloysius Dornin, U.S.N., of Baltimore. The gallant and veteran officer,* in a courteous reply to my enquiries, says: "My limited knowledge of my deceased father's career may be attributed to my having entered very early in my life into the navy as a midshipman, and, in fact, fresh from school, and having been kept very actively employed abroad, I was thus cut off from much family chat and family history." Then he informs me that Mr. Bernard Dornin removed to this country from Dublin in 1803. He left Ireland in consequence of his political opinions. He enjoyed the warm friendship of the Emmetts, Dr. McNeven, and Counsellor Samson, some of whom afterwards resided in New York. Soon after settling in New York, he set up an establishment in Newburg, N. Y., and another in Edenton [?], N. C., book-selling and stationery. Mr. Dornin enjoyed the warm friendship of Archbishop Carroll and of his successors, including Dr. Kenrick. He was esteemed an excellent writer, highly educated, gifted with a fine memory, which happily told in literary and social circles. At last he withdrew from business, and went to Ohio, to reside near his daughters, and died in 1836, aged 75 years. Mr. Dornin's name as a bookseller I find as early as 1805 in the "New Testament. Brooklyn: Printed by T. Kirk for Campbell & Mitchell. . . . D. Smith & B. DORNIN, Booksellers. New York, 1805" (O'Callaghan's Bibles, p. 80, ad an. No. 3). From the titles of "Mumford," and "Fletcher," and "Elevation of the Soul," we learn that he was in New York in 1808, in Baltimore in 1809, whence he removed to Philadelphia in 1817. A little pamphlet (Charity School, v. infra) was published by B. D. in Baltimore, and bears the date 1807; but probably it refers to the establishment of the school, not to the date of printing. Laffan, the talented New York correspondent of the Boston Pilot, wrote once of Bernard Dornin :

* At p. 14 of the Register . . . of the Navy of the U. S., to January 1, 1866, I read the following entry: "COMMODORES. Retired List. T. ALOYSIUS DORNIN. Waiting orders. Born in Ireland; appointed from Maryland; resided in Maryland; entered the service, May 2, 1815; date of present commission, July 16, 1862; in the service, 50 years 8 months.

“ We believe that Mr. Bernard Dornin was the first distinctly Catholic publisher of the United States. He is certainly the first of whom we can find any trace in our notes. He was in business in 1820, if not earlier. Our friend, Mr. Eugene Cumiskey, of Philadelphia, was the next in order of time. He was the most eminent Catholic publisher in the country for the twenty years from 1820 to 1840. Our lamented friend, John Doyle, formerly of New York, and more recently of San Francisco, was a Catholic publisher and bookseller of distinction, from 1830 to 1849 or 1850. He had a wonderful partiality for the pro-Catholic writings of William Cobbett, most of which he stereotyped. His plates are now worked by the Messrs. Sadlier of New York.”

In conclusion, I send forth the little work with many misgivings; nor would I publish it but for the urgent request of my friends.* In a work of

* “ REV. AND DEAR SIR :

“ Since my return home I have thought over the matter, and am more and more convinced of the soundness of the advice which I gave you, to publish immediately your most interesting and valuable BIBLIOGRAPHIA CATHOLICA AMERICANA.

“ If you wait until such a work is perfect, you will never publish it.

“ You have collected a great amount of curious Bibliographical and Biographical matter, which should not be allowed to pass into oblivion.

“ The publication of your work will excite an interest on the subject, and will bring out additional information, which will enable you to perfect it in a second edition.

“ It is a great mistake to suppose that such works are only curious or this kind, written amidst many interruptions, and unable as I have been to visit many public and private libraries, mistakes must have crept in. Let, then, this Bibliographia go forth as a pioneer. Scholars of keener scent and larger erudition, I hope, will follow me, and try to fix the landmarks of Catholic literature, and do justice, although a tardy one, to those great and good men who, amidst so many difficulties, have so earnestly, aye, successfully, worked in the cause of religion.

interesting—they are most useful ; and one of the best signs that the Catholic Church has taken root, and is growing up vigorously in this country, will be an increased interest among our people about everything connected with the planting and spread of our Faith in this part of the world.

“ Bibliography is a sort of antiquarianism in which every one takes an interest.

“ You may put me down as a subscriber for twenty copies if you publish it.

“ Yours, with sincere regards,

R.—G. W. Richards, Esq., of Philadelphia, than whom a more prolific, accommodating, and interesting correspondent to aid me in my work I have not had. Alas! on the eve of my sending this copy to the printer, I receive (Sept. 10, 1871) the melancholy news of Mr. Richards's death. "He died at Burlington, N. J., on the 9th of last July, and is there interred at St. Paul's Church." He crowned his many years of courteous correspondence (I never knew him personally) by bequeathing unto me a selection from his valuable library. R. I. P. Mr. R. was an elegant writer. The titles of some of his works will be given in the Second Part of this Bibliography.

EARLIEST RECORDS OF CATHOLIC LITERATURE

IN THE COLONIES.

A LEARNED writer on Catholic Literature in the United States in the Metropolitan (Baltimore, 1854, vol. ii. pp. 69, 133, 198) remarks: "When the Pilgrims were yet in Holland, a Peruvian wrote, in Florida, the first of its historical books; Ulloa, the first Spanish Governor of Louisiana, is a well-known name in literature; Lescarbot, on the coast of Maine, composed his Muses de la Nouvelle France . . . ; Jogues, in the office of the Dutch commandant at Albany, wrote in Latin . . . the narrative of his sufferings, which Rome and Austria reprinted at length." *

1592. In Mr. Shea's History of the Catholic Mis-

* Louis de Oré, Historia de los Martires de Florida, 1604; Ulloa, Histor. Relation of a Voyage to South America, etc.; Lescarbot, 1615. [Carli, v. infra, wrote a continuation to Ulloa's work.]

sions among the Indian Tribes of the United States (New York, 1857), we read at p. 66: "More Franciscans were invited (to Florida) in 1592. . . . Meanwhile, the Mexican father, Francis Pareja, drew up, in the language of the Yamassees, his Abridgment of Christian Doctrine, the first work in any of our Indian languages that issued from the press." In the Metropolitan (Balt., 1856, iv. p. 662) we read, in an article on St. Augustine, Fla., "that the old Franciscan Convent is now the U. S. Barracks," and "here labored Pareja, compiling for the converts those works on Témuquana which are the oldest books in any of our Indian languages, and are now so rare that no price can be deemed extravagant."

1750. Some of Fénelon's works printed this year were sold in New York during 1870. I missed them, and have mislaid the Memo. (v. Fénelon).

1781. Chastelleux, Travels in N. A., Dec. 7, 1782, v. ii. p. 305: "Mr. Beard . . . an Irishman . . . had long lived as a merchant in New York, and even sold books." [Was he a Catholic?]

Before the Revolution, a few Catholic books were quietly printed in Philadelphia, such as The Garden of the Soul, Following of Christ, etc., and some Catholic books were apparently kept on sale near old St. Joseph's. A gentleman of one of our older Catholic families has a copy of Bossuet's Exposition, printed at London in 1735, in which his great-grandfather had written, "Obtain'd in Philadel., Nov. 28, 1766, this book." [Appendix IX. to History of Catholic Church in New York, by Rev. J. R. Bayley, 2d ed., Cath. Pub. Soc'y, 1870. I have in my library a copy of Fr. Da Ponte's (of Puente) Meditations, at St. Omer's, Anno Domini 1619, which had been in the Carroll family for many years previous to the War of Independence. Was not some Catholic book printed in N. Y. before the war, during the existence of a Catholic school there (v. Bayley's History of the Catholic Church in N. Y., p. 31, N. Y. Cath. Pub. Soc'y, 1870)? The Catholics in the Colonies were put to great straits for Catholic books. A Jesuit missionary (Frambach?) copied the whole Missal, preserved, I think, in Georgetown College.

ACCOUNT, A Short—of the Establishment of the New See of Baltimore, Md., and of Consecrating the Rev. Dr. John Carroll, first Bishop thereof, on the Feast of the Assumption, 1790. With a Discourse delivered on that Occasion, and the Authority for Consecrating the Bishop and Erecting and Administering the said See. London: Printed. [Fr. Charles Plowden, S.J., is the author of both the Account and the Discourse; b. at Plowden Hall, Salop, May 1, 1743, d. suddenly at Jougne, in France, June 13, 1821. He was on his way back from the General Congregation held in Rome by the Fathers of the Company of Jesus. The English lay-brother who accompanied him, unable to express himself in French, repeated so often the word general in connection with the father having attended the General Congregation in Rome, that the functionaries came to the conclusion that the deceased Englishman must have been a general, and he was accordingly buried with military honors. Fr. Plowden was Abp. Carroll's intimate friend and adviser through life; v. Allibone, ad n.]

ALEXANDRIA, The—Controversy; or, A Series of Letters between M. B. and Quæro, on the Tenets of Catholicity, which appeared in the Alexandria Newspapers. With Notes. Georgetown, D. C.: Printed by W. Duffy, Bookseller and Stationer. 1817. pp. viii.—266. 12mo. F.

[The controversy was carried on from May 9 to Dec. 1, 1817, between Rev. Roger Baxter, S.J., and Rev. Mr. Wilmer (who seems to have provoked it), an Episcopal minister of St. Paul's Church, Alexandria, Va. The Alexandria Gazette, Snowden, editor, published Baxter's letters, and the Herald his opponent's. I am told, on very good authority, that the controversy "made one convert to the Church, and he turned out badly"; v. infra Baxter. Next year appeared the following:

The Controversy between M. B. and Quæro, which appeared in the Alexandria Newspapers in the year 1817, on some Points of Roman Catholicism: to which is added an Appendix, containing a Brief

Notice of Luther of Indulgences of the Inquisition and of the Order of the Jesuits. By a Protestant. | Quot. Jude 3; St. Augustine de Un. Eccl., c. 16, Vinc. Lirin. | Alexandria: Printed by Samuel Snowden. 1818. pp. viii. and 236. 8vo. F.

[A much larger work, evidently taking advantage of the woman's privilege "to have the last word." This edition is scarce. I knew of it only after my work was in the printer's hands. The Rev. F. J. Sumner, S.J., who, on receiving my circular, most kindly searched the library of G. T. C., and sent me a list of titles, whereof some had been forgotten by me, adds to the Georgetown ed. of 1817 the following: "And the notes by G. Ironside, formerly an Episcopal minister of N. Y., now a Catholic layman."]

ALMANAC, THE CATHOLIC—The Catholic Lady's Directory to the Church Service: with an Almanac for the Year 1817. Price 25 cents. Contents: Abstract of the Directory; Explanation; Calendar; Explanatory Preface; St. Francis de Sales's Exhortation to attend Vespers; Suitable behavior in Church; Gother on Cleanliness; Extraordinary High Mass; New Year's Gift; Litany for a Happy Death; Obituary; Miraculous Events in Italy; Anecdote of St. Simon Stock; Dr. Milner's Account of an extraordinary Miracle; Reflections on Miracles; Churches, Colleges, Seminaries, Convents, and Benevolent Institutions; O'Leary's Apology for Catholic Servants refusing to go to a Protestant Church; Particulars of a Prophetic Sermon lately published in England; The Thirty Days' Prayer; Ward's Errata—his Life, etc.; Spouse of Christ; Catalogue; Litany for the Dead; Catholic Magazine. New York: Published and sold by M. Field, 177 Bowery. pp. 68. 32mo. F.

Two blank pages; next page, Address to the Catholic Public, soliciting communications. The paging begins with a title-page, as follows:

By permission of the Right Rev. Bishop Connolly: To be published annually, The Laity's Directory to the Church Service, for the Year of our Lord 1817. Being the first after Leap Year, and forty-first of the Independence of the United States of America. To which are added an Obituary, Biography, and an account of the Catholic Churches, Colleges, Seminaries, Benevolent Institutions, etc., etc., in the United States and Canada. Also, A New Year's Gift, and a variety of edifying and interesting information. With an Almanac, exclusive of all useless matter. New York: Published and sold by M. Field, at his Library, 177 Bowery, within a few doors of Delancey Street. . . . 1817.

[Daniel Fanshaw, 241 Pearl Street, was the printer of this work. The four pages unnumbered were perhaps intended as a circular or manifesto; pp. 64 68 contain the catalogue of a library well stocked, for the times, with Catholic books for sale. The Directory was not continued. The copy before me, faulty as it is, manifests a great deal of enterprise in Mr. Field, who announces also a Catholic Magazine, saying that "a periodical of this kind . . . is in a state of preparation for publication," etc., etc., etc. Was it ever started? A printed prospectus of it was circulated.

Matthew Field was an Irishman by descent, b. in England; his family, intensely Catholic, left Ireland during the Rebellion; and resided in Stockport, England, in order to avoid prosecution. A brother or brother-in-law of M. F. was kidnapped for singing a rebel song, and was never heard from afterwards. The family came to America in '15 or thereabout. Matthew Field died of cholera in Baltimore (1832?). His son, Joseph M., was six years old when he came to this country, became a prolific and brilliant writer, a contributor to many magazines, a writer of fine plays, but died suddenly of asthma, in Mobile, 1856. He made no profession of religion, although he was baptized in the Catholic Church, and had also served as a clerk at the altar. He often wrote for the press under the pseudonym of "Straws." His talented daughter, Kate Field, baptized a Catholic, professes no determined religion, and has written valuable contributions to magazines and newspapers, often signing herself "Straws, Jr." Amongst her ancestors she reckons Nathaniel Field, a member of the "Shakespeare's Company," and author of Woman as a Weathercock. Allibone speaks of a Matthew C. Field, but his items do not square with our family information.]

ANDREWS, JOHN—An Attempt to Explain and Vindicate the Doctrine and Worship of the Roman Catholic Church. By J. A., of Norfolk, Virginia. Norfolk: Printed by Shields, Charlton & Co. 1818. pp. 46. 8vo. Abp. B. & G. T. C.

[I have written more letters courting information on this author than on any one else, but so far all my efforts have been fruitless. "The man with a library" in Va. never heard of him (April 6, 1870). But as I was preparing these pages for the printer, a friend at my elbow whispered another source of information—Dr. Thos. Andrews (Apr. 24, 1871). Letter written, but returned through the Dead Letter Office. Allibone seems to have never heard of him.]

APPLETON, REV. JAS.—Pious Lectures, Explanatory of the Principles, Obligations and Resources of the Catholic Religion. Translated from La Doctrine Chrétienne par Lhomond. 1st American from the 8th Engl. Ed. Phila.: Printed for B. Dornin, at his Catholic Bookstore, corner of Walnut and 3d Sts. 1817. F.

Pp. xii. and 388; six pp. unnumbered Subscribers' names, and 12 pp. a catalogue of books, Prospectus of a Library, etc.

[This work can hardly be called a translation. Mr. A., at p. viii., calls it "a work taken from the French of" etc. Unknown to Allibone.]

ASSOCIATION.—A Brief Account of the Female Human [Catholic] Charity School, of the City of Baltimore. Baltimore: Printed by Warner & Hanna. 1803. pp. 23. 12mo. Abp. B.

[Bishop Carroll, President. It was started in 1798 by some ladies from pity for the sufferings of poor women in winter. Then the charity was extended to poor girls also. A Catholic institution in its origin, it made no distinction of creeds.]

AUTHORITY, The Uncerring—of the Catholic Church in Matters of Faith, maintained against the Exceptions of a late author in his answer to a Letter on the Subject of Infallibility; or, A Theological Dissertation, in which the Infallibility of the Church of Christ is demonstrated from innumerable Texts of Scripture, from the Creed, from the Fathers, and perpetual Tradition. To which are prefixed, Eight preliminaries by way of introduction to the True Church of Christ. "Seek, and you shall find."—Matt. vii. 7. London: Printed. Philadelphia: Re Printed for T. Lloyd. MDCCLXXXIX. pp. 208. 12mo. F.

[At the end, four pp. unnumbered Subscribers' names. Although published anonymously, it is the work of Dr. Challoner, Bp. of Debra and Vic. Ap. of London, b. Sept. 29, 1691, d. a. 1781, æt. 91. He became a Catholic when twenty years old; v. Challoner and his Life, by James Barnard, Lond., 1784.]

BADIN, REV. STEPHEN THEODORE—Carmen Sacrum. A Latin Poem, composed on occasion of Bishop Flaget's Arrival in Kentucky in June, 1811.

[Mr. Kean O'Hara, of Frankfort, translated it into English; v. Abp. Spalding's Sketches of Kentucky, Appendix No. I.]

— Epiccedium. A Latin Poem, written on the occasion of the Death of Col. Joe Daviess, at the Battle of Tippecanoe, Nov. 7, 1811.

[Dr. Mitchell, of New York, made a translation of it; v. A. S. Sketches, Appendix No. II.]

— The Real Principles of Roman Catholics in Reference to God and the Country. A New Edition, carefully revised and elucidated with Notes. Dedicated to all Lovers of Truth. By a French Clergyman. "Sanctify the Lord Jesus Christ in your hearts, being always ready to satisfy every one that asketh you a reason of that hope which is in you." —1 Peter iii. 2. Bardstown (Ky.): Printed by F. Peniston. 1805. pp. iv.—96. 32mo. F.

[Is there an edition of 1803 at G. T. C. ?]

[He signs his name in full at the end of the Introduction, dated "Bardstown, Aug. 24, 1805." On last page, after Contents, is written, "N. B.—A copyright shall be procured."]

"His Latin poetry, in praise of Perry's glorious victory over Britain's flag on Lake Erie, was, at the time, extensively circulated and admired."—Cincinnati Catholic Telegraph, April, 1833; reported also in the Metropolitan Magazine, Baltimore, 1853, p. 273.

[S. T. B., b. at Orleans, France, July 27, 1768; arrived at Baltimore on March 28, 1792; became Proto sacerdos, i. e., the first priest ordained in the United States. Dr. Carroll ordained him in the old Cathedral of St. Peter's, Baltimore, May 25, 1793. Fr. Badin died in Cincinnati, O., April 19, 1853, æt. 85, within a few days of his sixtieth year of priesthood. The late V. R. Mr. Collins told me that after he had administered the sacrament of Extreme Unction to the glorious veteran, the latter remarked, "Poor Protestants! they have none of this." Fr.

Badin preserved his national vivacity to the end, always "on the go" for some holy purpose. When his portrait, a very fine one, was taken, a friend remarked, "Lo! the first time I see him still." It is unpardonable that the lives of men like Fr. Badin, Nerinckx, Richard, and such other pioneers of the Catholic Church should not have been written in extenso. The generation of Catholic priests connecting those heroes with us is fast passing away, and thus the sweet odor of their great virtues will vapor away from the memory of mankind. In the Sketches of the Early Catholic Missions in Kentucky, by M. J. Spalding, D.D. (the late venerated Archbishop of Baltimore), Bardstown, 1844, at p. 125, we read the following note: "A volume of considerable size might be made of the various writings of M. Badin, which are well worth preserving in this form. We have reason to hope that something of the kind will be hereafter published." Hereafter! . . . Badin's name is not in Alibone, yet he was an American patriot, scholar, and writer.]

BAKER, REV. P., O.S.F.—The Devout Communicant; or, Spiritual Entertainments for Three Days before and Three Days after Communion. With a Devout Method of Visiting the Blessed Sacrament, and some Pious Hymns, Fervent Prayers, Aspirations, Soliloquies, etc.; to which is added an Appendix, containing Spiritual Regulations, extracted from the Writings of St. Francis of Sales and the Rev. Dornin; but she afterwards printed many of the anti-Catholic pamphlets in the Hogan controversy. A Francis Bailey printed a N. T. in 1780, Philadelphia, Market Street; and another was printed for J. Cruikshank, F. BAILEY, Young, by Stewart, M'Culloch, and J. Dobson, 1786. I. Thomas says that one Francis Bailey was a printer in Lancaster, A.D. 1772, and moved to Philadelphia after the war; but he there printed a N. T., 1780, v. O'C., p. 30. Thomas adds that he again returned to Lancaster, where, in 1797, J. Bailey and W. & R. Dickson printed a N. T.]

John Gilmary Shea (than whom none has more laboriously worked for the preservation of the monuments of Catholic history in this country, and the list of whose works, original or edited, will form a very large contribution to the pages of my catalogue) published in 1859, by the Cramoisy Press, in New York, A Bibliographical Account of Catholic Bibles, Testaments, and other Portions of Scripture Translated from the Latin Vulgate, and Printed in the United States. pp. 48. 12mo. “N. B.—The third and fourth book of Machabees, as also the third and fourth book of Esdras (which some call the first and second of Esdras), and the prayer of Manasses, are here omitted, because they have never been received by the Church.” This is the first American edition of the Douay and Rheims versions of the Scriptures, and is supposed to be the first quarto Bible published in English in the United States. It was originally advertised to be issued in forty-eight weekly numbers, the first of which appeared December 19, 1789. About twenty sheets were issued in that form, when the plan seems to have been abandoned, and the work was finally published on December 1, 1790. The types for the work were cast in the foundry of John Baine, Philadelphia. The text is reprinted from Challoner's second edition of the Bible, 1763-4, 5 vols. 12mo. The annotations are at the foot of the pages.

"In the following year," says Mr. Shea, page 10, "Dr. Troy's Bible—that is, the Rev. Mr. M^cMahon's revision of Bishop Challoner's translation, made under the direction of the Most Rev. Dr. Troy, Abp. of Dublin—appeared, and as the modifications met with general acceptance, Mr. Carey some years later issued a reprint of this also." (v. 1805.)

[We copy the following as a suggestion :

1797. St. Matthew, chapters v. 1-20, vi. 19-34, vii. 1-12; St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, chapter xii.; to the Colossians, chapter iii.; St. James's Epistle, chapter i. (N. Y. Hist. Soc.)

"These portions of the New Testament are contained in a volume entitled Catholic Liturgy, or Forms of Prayer, printed in Boston, by Isaiah Thomas, 1797."—O'C., page 54.

Might not this be one of the Catholic books published by Dr. Cheverus, as we mention infra? However, considering that Isaiah Thomas has been very careful to omit the name of every Catholic printer in his work, even of Mathew Carey (although Thomas's work was published in 1810), we scarcely believe he would print a Catholic book unless under the pressure of auri sacra fames.

Since writing the above, we have been favored with the following title: "A Catholic Liturgy, or Form of Prayer. Christians of all Denominations may unite in these Prayers, as they allude to no Doctrines but such as are universally professed by all who call themselves Christians. Printed by Samuel Hall, No. 53 Cornhill, Boston, 1797."

Was it an Episcopalian dish served up, with some manipulation, for the benefit of the Unitarians? A copy of the work is to be found in the New York Historical Library.]

The following is a copy of the approbation (at the end of second vol.):

“J'ai lu attentivement, et comparé avec la Vulgate cette nouvelle édition du Nouveau Testament, imprimée à Boston, par J. T. Buckingham. Elle est fidèle; le langage en est pur; et elle ne contient rien qui ne soit entièrement conforme à la foi Catholique, Apostolique et Romaine.

✚ JEAN, Evêque de Boston.

“BOSTON, 22 Décembre, 1810.”

The Text is in paragraphs, without notes, but with an introduction to each book concluding with a pious aspiration.

The version of the New Testament by Le Maistre de Sacy (b. in Paris, 1613, Director of Port Royal, d. 1684) and others appeared at Mons in 1667, but was condemned (by Clement IX., April 20, 1668, and ed. Bruxellis 1675, sive aliis in locis, Decr. Sep. 19, 1679, Innocent XI.) as made to favor Jansenism. A corrected edition accordingly appeared the same year [?], and subsequent editions omitting or correcting the censured portions were well received. Le Maistre de Sacy, in 1672-95, published a version of the whole Bible (or only the Old Testament (?), composed during three years' confinement in the Bastille), which was modified subsequently by [Carrières?] Calmet and others. His edition of the New Testament, published at Paris in 1759, with approbation, has been taken as a standard, and was probably followed in this edition, although we cannot say so positively. Having been compared by Bishop Cheverus with the Vulgate and approved by him, 'tis to be presumed that it is after the standard edition.—See further, Dictionnaire de Bibliographie Catholique, ch. xi. and xii.

[Since writing the above, I found among my papers a letter of Dr. Cheverus to Mr. Thomas Walley, of Brookline, from which I copy :

“BOSTON, September 24, 1810.

“Dear Sir: I believe you have our 16th volume of La Bible de Venise. Be so kind as to send it by the bearer. The part of the New Testament which this volume contains is on the point of going to the press, and we cannot do without this book. . .

"I received yesterday a letter from the worthy Archbishop Carroll. I expect to leave this town for Baltimore either the 8th or the 15th of October. . . . The consecration will take place either on the Festival of All Saints or the Sunday within the Octave.

"With sincere and respectful friendship, yours,

"J. CHEVERUS."

The holy life of the distinguished first Bishop of N. E. has been described by able hands, but I fear my account of the divers sources of information will prove insufficient. The Biographie Catholique (Paris, MDCCCXLIV.) says: "On a publié dernièrement une excellente Vie de M. Cheverus, en 8vo et 12mo, 3me édition, . . . par M. l'Abbé J. Huen-Dubourg. L'Académie française, en couronnant cet ouvrage, s'est honorée."

Then we have The Life of Card. C., Abp. of Bordeaux, and formerly Bishop of Boston, in Massachusetts, by J. Huen-Dubourg, . . . translated from the French by E. Stewart. Boston: James Munroe & Co. 1839. F.

pp. iii-x, Translator's Preface (worth reading as to identity of the French biographer, p. iv); pp. xi-xxvii, Author's Preface and Contents of each page in the Text, of pp. 369, 12mo. pp. 372-389 contain an Appendix of Notes explanatory of the Text and refuting adverse remarks of Protestant papers made at the appearance of the Life. Mr. E. Stewart was a Protestant, according to the Preface of the French edition of '58.

Then, again: Life of the Cardinal de C., Abp. of Bordeaux. By the Rev. J. Huen-Dubourg, . . . translated by Robert M. Walsh. Philadelphia: Hooker & Caxton. 1839. F.

It is dedicated to Rev. J. J. Chance, then President of St. Mary's College, Baltimore, by the author, who calls himself his pupil. ix-xii, Preface of Translator; Text, pp. 13-265; pp. 267-280 contain Notes different from the Stewart edition, and the texts, although bearing similarity to each other, give evidence of two different hands. Of this Philadelphia edition, a distinguished American Catholic historian writes: "The real author is the Rev. Mr. Hamon, a Sulpitian." And Mr. Hamon is styled the biographer of Cheverus by other writers. (Hamon's Treatise on Catechism. Cincinnati: Walsh. 1861.) This puzzle is rendered more intricate by the following title:

Vie du Card. de Cheverus, Archevêque de Bordeaux. Par M. le Curé de Saint-Sulpice, Auteur de la Vie de Saint François de Sales. Cinquième édition. Paris: Lecoffre. 1858. F.

In the Preface, pp. 1-5, allusion is made to Mr. Stewart's translation. The Text, pp. 7-410, is more or less the original followed both in the Boston and Philadelphia translations. pp. 410-435, augmented; pp. 437-460, pièces justificatives, table, etc. The work is a neat French 8vo edition.

NOTE.—R. M. Walsh published also: Sketches of Conspicuous Living Characters of France. Translated by R. M. Walsh. Philadelphia: Lea & Blanchard. 1841. pp. 332. 12mo. F.

It contains sketches, among the rest, of Thiers, Chateaubriand, Lamartine, De La Mennais, Broglie, etc. It is a book both interesting and useful. Allibone mentions another edition of Cheverus's Life, by Mr. Walsh, of 1841. I have failed to secure it. Were the library of the Bishop of Boston examined, I might glean some items of the earliest French editions of Cheverus's Life, but, in consequence of a temporary change of residence, the library may be considered boxed up. We hope to obtain a great deal of light from the forthcoming History of the Catholic Church in N. E., by Rev. James Fitton. Boston: P. Donahoe.

Mr. R. H. Clarke has published a Memoir of Bishop Cheverus in the Baltimore Metropolitan, vol. iv., p. 457; v. also U. S. Catholic Magazine, vol. iv., 1845, p. 261.

Whilst correcting these proofs, I receive my much-esteemed friend Clarke's Lives of the Deceased Bishops of the Catholic Church in the U. S., etc. New York: P. O'Shea. 1872. It is a noble work, of great merit, written with a true appreciation of historical and biographical worth, and genuine fervor of Catholic feeling.]

The Preface or Advertisement says: "The utility of the following Epitome has been already so far tested by experience, not only in France, where it was first produced, but in this country, that it stands in need of no eulogium. It has justly superseded the Selectæ e Veteri Testamento (v. supra, 1787 and 1804) of M. Rollin in its easiness and classical [God save the mark!] Latinity, and its neatness, brevity, and perspicuity atone for the prolixity of the other."

[Is not there a copy of 1802 in G. T. C.? J. R., as well as his two brothers, Richard and Thomas, were English Jesuits. J. R., b. A.D. 1733, d. May 2, 1820, æt. 87, at Ugbrooke, where he had resided, "the model of pastors," the last fifty-three years of his life. In Exeter, 1780, he published the History of the Bible, 2 vols. 12mo, which is wrongfully styled from the French, because, although it was at first a free translation of the Abrégé de Royaumont, he afterwards remoulded the whole work, as can be well proven by a collation of texts (see De Feller's Dict. Biogr.). Royaumont is a pseudonym assumed by Louis Isaac le Maistre de Sacy (v. supra), who is the real author, although by others it is ascribed to Nicholas Fontaine, who had been De Sacy's companion in prison. Says the preface to the Exeter edition, 1780: "The translator had not far advanced in his undertaking before he perceived that the author's intended brevity had made his performance, in many parts, defective and obscure; and that, to convey any tolerably clear and connected account of the sacred history, the rules of translation were to be set aside, and the text itself more closely attended to. It likewise appeared, upon a nearer examination, that the compiler, in some of his reflections, had not less studiously flattered his friends of Port-Royal than he had been partially severe, in others, upon the dignitaries of the Church, and in many of his passages had given such a turn to the thought and expression of the fathers, as was more calculated to support an enthusiastic system of theology than to promote the interests of true piety."]

There are brief headings to the chapters, and notes at foot of pages. The projected edition of the Bible mentioned above was, we are informed, never published."

Rev. W. Taylor concludes a preface to the Christian Monitor, A.D. 1819 (v. infra), thus: "I beg leave to announce to the Roman Catholics of this country my intention of causing to be published in this city an edition of the Douway translation of the Scriptures with approved notes selected and translated from unexceptionable commentators and expositors. I reckon on the co-operation of the prelates and of my brother clergymen in the United States. A Prospectus in a few days will be circulated to obtain a sufficient number of subscribers, etc. W. T." Bernard Dornin, at page 357 (verso) of his Elevation of the Soul, Philadelphia, 1817, advertises: "In a few days he (B. D.) will submit to his reverend friends a prospectus for publishing an edition of the Douway Bible and Testament, in royal octavo, price about five dollars." It was not published.

It is remarkable that according as the Catholics became more numerous, such names disappear from the titles of Protestant publications. However much the list I have made out may seem superfluous, I think it may yet elicit remarks and investigations that will illustrate a particular page of American Catholic bibliography.

(a.) From 1803 to 1809 inclusive, one John Butler was the printer of the Ordo in Baltimore. From 1790 to 1820 exclusive, Mathew Carey, of Philadelphia, published different editions of the Bible, as follows :

H. B., HOLY BIBLE; N. T., NEW TESTAMENT; c., CATHOLIC; p., PROTESTANT.

1790, H. B., c.; 1801, 2 H. B., p.; 1802, H. B., p.; 1803, 4 H. B., p.; 1805, 1 H. B., c., 2 H. B., p., 1 N. T., c.; 1806, 2 H. B., 1 N. T., p.; 1807, 1 H. B., 1 N. T., p.; 1808, 2 H. [Bichat, the greatest anatomist of his day, was born at the Jura, November, 1771. Of him writes Bishop Bruté in his journal: "1801, 3 Thermidor (July 22, 1802).—Xavier Bichat died this morning at four o'clock, 31 years of age, enjoying the very highest reputation in his profession, and giving the greatest promise for the future. All his pupils [Bruté one of them] loved him. His father and mother were excellent people, very pious, and brought him up in the most Christian manner. When he first came to Paris, he lived with his aunt, Madame Bouisson, and was very regular in the practice of his Christian duties, but afterwards, when he went to live with Dessant, he became careless. Dessant's widow, with whom he still lodged when attacked by his last sickness, watched with the greatest care to keep him from seeing a priest; but yesterday evening the Abbé Pinlibert, his former confessor (and who had been so zealous in assisting the persons guillotined during the Reign of Terror), made out to go to his bedside, and gave him absolution in extremis. Bichat, however, never gave in to the reigning impiety, and was unimpeachable in his morals; but he was led away by his love of science and reputation. Let us pray to God for the repose of his soul."—Bp. Bruté's Life, by Bp. Bayley. New York: J. G. Shea. 1870. 2d edition. pp. 211. Other works of Bichat, published in the U. S. previous to 1820, I have seen lately advertised for sale at public auctions in N. Y., but, alas! the marcupium might be used for a foot-ball!]]

BLYTH.—Apology for the Conversion of Steph. Cleveland ——. New York: Desnoes. 1815. pp. 64. 12mo. B. B.

[Steph. Cl. B., b. in Salem, Mass., Jan. 20, [1771, after trying many sects, Mohammedanism included, received the first impression of faith in reading Massillon, and was received in the Church by Bp. BONAPARTE, LUCIEN.—Charlemagne; or, The Church Delivered. An Epic Poem, in twenty-four Books. By Lucien Bonaparte, of the Institute of France, etc. Translated by the Rev. S. Butler, D.D., and the Rev. Francis Hodgson, A.M. Philadelphia: Published by John Conrad & Co. J. Maxwell, Printer. 1815. 2 vols. 18mo. F.

I. p. v, To His Holiness, Pope Pius VII, signed, "Your Holiness' Most Faithful and Devoted Son in Jesus Christ, Lucien Bonaparte. Rome, May, 1814." Prefaces, etc., pp. vii-xxii; Text, pp. 23-285. II. pp. 287.

B. born 1775, in Ajaccio, d. at his Principality of Canino, near Viterbo, June 29, 1840, æt. 65. Pope Pius VII. had great regard for him. Lucien always opposed his brother Napoleon's measures against the Sovereign Pontiff, and also refused to accept a throne from him. Other works of his have been published in America, I believe. Allibone does not mention this work in connection with Butler, head-master of Shrewsbury School, 1798, Bp. of Lichfield, 1836. For Butler and Hodgson, see Lond. Gent. Mag., Apr., 1853, and Feb., 1840.

[“Adapted for the use of Protestants.”—J. G. S.]

BOTTA, CHARLES JOS. WILLIAM.—History of the War of the Independence of the U. S. of America. Translated from the Italian by George Alexander Otis. Philadelphia: Printed for the Translator. J. Maxwell, printer. 1820-21. 3-8vo. F.

[In subsequent editions valuable additions have been made. B. wrote his history and published it in Paris in Italian. 1809.—F. Is there not an American copy of 1810 at Saint Sulpice, Baltimore? B. was the first historian of our Independence war. Objections have been made against my reckoning Botta among Catholic authors. Yet he was born and reared a Catholic, and died in full communion with the Church. If the Index has condemned some of his other works, it was donez corrigantur.]

BRADY and EDELEN.—Correspondence between the Rev. M. B. [Prot.], Rector in St. Mary's County, Md., and Rev. L. E. [Cath.], Pastor in Newtown, same county. Washington: Davis & Force. 1819. pp. 43. 8vo. F.

[The correspondence was occasioned by a report that Rev. L. Edelen had burnt a Protestant Bible. To Rev. Joseph E. Keller, Provincial Superior of the Jesuit Province of Maryland, I am indebted for the following: "Rev. Leonard Edelen was born in St. Mary's Co., Md., A.D. 1783. Received into the Company of Jesus, by Fr. Robert Molineux, Oct. 10, 1806; professed in Georgetown, Oct. 10, 1808. Bishop L. Neale gave him Tonsure and minor orders, June 8, 1808, in Trinity Church, Georgetown; Subdeaconship, June 8; Deaconship, June 10; Priesthood, June 11. On Feb. 2, 1821, he was admitted to the profession of Spiritual Coadjutor in the same church, Rev. A. Kohlman officiating. d. at Newtown, St. Mary's Co., Md., Dec. 21, 1823, æt. 40. He was in Philadelphia in 1809, was sent to Newtown, Md., in 1811, and remained there to his death. Fr. Edelen is remembered as an excellent, worthy man."]

BROSIUS, REV. F. X.—A New and Concise Method of Finding the Latitude by Double Latitudes of the Sun. Dedicated to the Boston Marine Society. Cambridge: Hilliard & Metcalf. 1815. pp. 51. 8vo. Bost. Athen.

[“With regard to Fr. Brosius, I understood from Rev. Mr. Gallitzin’s own lips that he was deputed by his venerable mother to accompany her son to America from Munster in Germany. After a few years in the U. S., he returned to Germany. The Rev. Prince told me that Rev. Brosius wrote to him from Germany, urgently advising him to return, ‘that no doubt they would make him a bishop’—little did they know his humility! I have a traditionary knowledge that Fr. Brosius was principal of a college near Philadelphia, called Mount Airy. Rev. Mr. Gallitzin always praised him as ‘a pious and learned priest.’”—Letter of V. Rev. T. Heyden, Bedford, Pa.

Mr. Brosius left the Diocese of Boston shortly after his arrival there, 1816 or 1817; v. Catholicity in N. E., in Boston Catholic Observer, May 29, 1847. I am indebted to Rev. J. B. Purcell, of the Boston Cathedral, for the following: “The first record of Dr. Brosius (in the Book of Baptism) I find April 14, 1816, and the last one June 28, 1816.” Rev. Mr. Brosius’ name will be found among the subscribers to Turberville's Manual, Philadelphia, 1806.

BRUTE, RT. REV. SIMON GABRIEL.

[There is no need of my sketching the life of this eminent prelate of the Catholic Church in the U. S. after the works, a list whereof I give below. But Mr. Bruté is said to be the author of the Seminary of St. Sulpice; v. infra, cfr. Baltimore Cath. Alm., 1843, p. 36, seq.; where the biographer, whimsically enough, it seems, insists on spelling the prelate's name Bru-te: why?—Bishop Bayley, of Newark, N. J., has published Memoirs of the Rt. Rev. Simon W. Gabriel Bruté, First Bishop of Vincennes, etc., etc. New York: D. & J. Sadlier & Co. 1861. But—a puzzle to us—a previous edition on large paper was issued: New York: John Gilmary Shea. MDCCCLX. Unfortunately, '61 copies all the mistakes of '60, and '60 all those of '61. And Lady Herbert, lacking the grace and discretion of consulting the author, makes a compendium of the Life for the benefit of the Foreign Missionary Series (London: Burns, Oates & Co., n. d.) in 1870 (?), and stereotypes again all the mistakes of the original American blundering printers. But, was another edition, 1865, published by P. O'Shea (?), all from the same plates! cfr. Clarke.]

BURKE, ÆDANUS.—Address to the Freemen of South Carolina. By Cassius. Philadelphia: R. Bell. 1783. pp. 33, 8vo.

[This must be the address made for the purpose of having a system of lenity adopted towards American Tories, since hostilities had ceased.

b. 1747, in Galway, Ireland, Burke emigrated to America, became Chief-Justice of S. C. and M.C. He had studied at St. Omer's for the priesthood. He died in 1803.]

Burke's pamphlet called forth the Observations on a Late Pamphlet entitled "Considerations upon the Society or Order of the Cincinnati," clearly evincing the Innocence and Propriety of that Honourable and Respectable Institution. [Was it not by Brig.-Gen. Moylan?

"Burke's pamphlet on the Society of the Cincinnati produced a sensation at the time of its publication. Judge Burke accused the Society of aiming at the establishment of an hereditary order in the State, and denounced it vehemently as an utterly unrepugnant association. Randall, in his Life of Jefferson, affirms that the appearance of this pamphlet was the signal for a general onslaught on the society. 'The Governor of South Carolina condemned it in an address. The Legislatures of at least three States (Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island) passed resolutions of censure. Our plenipotentiaries in Europe wrote home, expressing mortified regrets that all our previous doctrines of government were thus repudiated. The friends of popular freedom in Europe generally, who had sympathized with the cause in America, joined in these mortifications and regrets. Four out of five, probably, of the entire population of the United States took the same view of the subject.' (Life of Jefferson, by Hon. Henry S. Randall, vol. i. pp. 406, 407.) Alexander Johnston, in his eulogistic Account of the Society of the Cincinnati, admits that the pamphlet of Ædanus Burke, an eccentric Irishman (was he or was he not a citizen, and, consequently, an American?) who held a seat on the Supreme Bench of South Carolina, 'was ably written, and caused no little sensation.' He mentions the confirmatory action of several States through their legislatures, and adds that: 'The consternation crosses the Atlantic. The celebrated Mirabeau, . . . then an exile in London, . . . edited a French version of Burke's pamphlet, with copious annotations, in which he was assisted by his friend and faithful adherent, Nicholas Chamfort.' (Memoirs of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, vol. vi. pp. 27, 28.) Judge Burke's elevation to the Bench of South Carolina dated back to the year 1778. (Ramsay's South Carolina edition of 1858, vol. ii. p. 87.)"—Laffan (M. Hennessey), N. Y. correspondent Boston Pilot, April, 1868.

The following notice of an eminent Irish Catholic, a founder of the Order of Cincinnati, from the same pen, will be read with interest:

"Colonel Stephen Moylan's Cavalry was the regiment known as the 4th Light Dragoons in the Continental service. The regiment was organized early in 1777, and all through the war for Independence it did noble work against the 'hereditary enemy.' At the close of that war, its commander ranked as a full brigadier-general, and in the subsequent years of his life he was always called General Moylan. He was one of the founders of the Society of the Cincinnati. He died in Philadelphia, on the 11th of April, 1811 (which was a fast-day in Pennsylvania), and was interred in the burial-ground of St. Mary's Church, South Fourth Street. . . . Gen. Moylan was the first and last president of the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Philadelphia, of the history of which we have already given a sketch in our Records. . . . He was a brother of the Right Rev. Francis Moylan, Roman Catholic Bishop of Cork, Ireland, from 1787 to 1815, and the intimate friend of the Right Rev. Daniel Delany, Roman Catholic Bishop of Kildare from 1787 to 1814, of whom Mr. Fitzpatrick (in his deeply interesting Life, Times, and Correspondence of the Right Rev. Dr. Doyle, as published by Mr. Donahoe, six years ago) makes quaint mention. 'Dr. Moylan idolized Dr. Delany, and the Bishop of Kildare was often for three months on a visit with his Right Rev. brother of Cork.' (Life, etc., of Dr. Doyle, vol. i, p. 132.) . . . Three other brothers of Gen. Stephen Moylan, namely, Jasper, James, and John Moylan, all took an active part in the establishment of the independence of the United States. They were, of course, all Roman Catholics. Jasper was an able, though not brilliant, member of the Bar of Philadelphia. His practice was extensive. In 1797, his office was at No. 95 Walnut Street. His only child was the wife of an eminent Catholic Irish-American, Robert Walsh, Esq., the celebrated editor and reviewer of the author of the Appeal of the United States from the Judgments of Great Britain; Diademics; etc., who died in Paris, some years ago." [v. infra.]

"In 1799, Col. A. Burr fought his first duel. It arose from scandals connected with the Holland Land Company. One John B. Church had spoken with so much freedom respecting the rumor, as to elicit from the slandered legislator (A. B.) a challenge to mortal combat. At Hoboken, September 2, the parties met. A ridiculous incident . . . furnished a by-word for many a day. Before leaving home, Col. Burr had been particular to explain to his second, Judge Burke, of South Carolina, that the balls were cast too small for his pistols, and that the chamois-leather, cut to the proper size, must be greased and put around them to make them fit. Leather and grease were placed in the case with the pistols. After the principals had been placed, Burr noticed Judge Burke vainly endeavoring to drive in the ramrod with a stone, and at once suspected that the grease had been forgotten. A moment after, the pistol was handed to him. With that singular coolness which he was wont to exhibit at critical moments, he drew the ramrod, felt of the ball, and told the Judge it was not home.

“‘I know it,’ replied the second, wiping the perspiration from his face. ‘I forgot to grease the leather; but, you see, your man is ready; don’t keep him waiting. Just take a crack as it is, and I’ll grease the next.’

“Shots were exchanged without effect. Mr. Church then made the requisite apology, and the parties returned to the city in the highest good-humor.”—Parton’s Life of A. Burr.

Charles Butler is a familiar name with the Catholics who are well acquainted with the Lives of the Saints written by his uncle, the Rev. Alban Butler, whose very interesting biography, by Charles, is prefixed to the American editions of the work. Allibone, in his Dictionary of Authors, gives for once a pretty good account of the literary habits and persevering labors of this Catholic author. Yet, my readers should know that Charles Butler had the misfortune of trespassing on Catholic questions, for which discussions he was not qualified. For, in the language of the able historian of the Church of England, "Butler's successful pursuits as a great conveyancer left him but few intervals for the study of history. How much he is at a loss in this extensive field of study is obvious at a glance. . . . His Memoirs, useful as they really are, yet abound with inaccuracy. . . . To rectify some of his errors, Dr. Milner wrote, perhaps too warmly, his excellent Supplementary Memoir." Canon Flanagan, History of England, v. ii. ch. xxvii. B. was b. in London, Aug. 14, 1750; was educated at Douay; d. June 2, 1832, æt. 82. His numerous works have gone through many editions.]

[Vols. i. and ii. have in the title-page “Revised, Corrected, and Augmented, with an entirely new set of Plates, Explanatory, Illustrative, and Ornamental, under the direction of C.
Taylor.” This announcement is left out in vols. iii. and iv., which latter volumes are not Calmet’s. In fact, even the first and second are maimed and mangled, and, of course, the Bible quotations changed from the Vulgate to King James I. The English editor does not disguise the fact that he has Protestantized the work (vol. i., pp. xii., xiii.), inasmuch as the author had mingled in his remarks sentiments which Protestants in general justly reject, etc. Charles Taylor, an engraver, of Lon-

The illustrious Abbot of Senones is a grand ornament of both the Church and of his order. His life was divided between prayer and study. Profoundly humble, he seemed unaware of the honors bestowed upon his works by all nations and all denominations. He indited his own epitaph :

Natione · Gallus · Religione · Catholico-Romanus
Professione · Monachus · Nomine · Abbas
Multum · Legit · Scripsit · Oravit
Utinam · Bene !

[Dobbin & Murphy appear very often among the early publishers of Catholic works in Baltimore. Judge Dobbin, a son of the printer, has kindly furnished the following:

“BALTIMORE, Dec. 30, 1871.

“Dear Sir: I greatly regret that I can give you so meagre an account of the publishing firm of ‘G. Dobbin & Murphy,’ which existed in Baltimore from about the year 1804 or 1805 (it may be a year earlier) till 1811 or 1812. The members of the firm were George Dobbin, born in County Armagh, Ireland, and Thomas Murphy, born in the City of Cork, Ireland. Mr. Dobbin fled from Ireland in the troubles of 1798, in the exciting transactions of which he took an active part as a United Irishman.

“Mr. Murphy came to this country in his boyhood. Both gentlemen were Presbyterians, . . . in which communion Mr. Dobbin died. In the latter part of his life, Mr. Murphy belonged to the Protestant Episcopal Church. . . .

“I am, very truly, yours,

“GEORGE W. DOBBIN.”

My excellent friend, J. Murphy, Esq., of Baltimore, to whom I am indebted for the above, and many other favors, adds:

“I knew Mr. Murphy very well; he was a remarkably clever and truly good man. Very few men in Baltimore commanded more respect, and few, if any, were most justly entitled to it.

than Thomas Murphy. He died a bachelor about ten years ago."—Baltimore, Nov. 28, 1871.

I. Thomas, in his History of Printing in the United States, makes no mention of Dobbin & Murphy.]

1 vol. 8vo. All separate pamphlets, uniformly printed and bound. The Preface contains an affectionate letter from Bp. Bruté, and a rude answer to it.

B.—Dr. Carroll's Address. Ut supra.

A London edition of Dr. Carroll's Address, with Preface and Postscript, appeared, whereupon Rev. A. O'Leary, O.S.F., published:

A Review of the important Controversy between Dr. Carroll and the Rev. Messrs. Wharton and Hawkins, including a Defence of the Pope Clement XIV. (Ganganelli) in suppressing a late Religious Order. In a Letter to a Gentleman. London: Printed for and sold by the Editor, P. Keating, No. 4 Air Street, Piccadilly. MDCCLXXXVI. (v. American edition of O'Leary's Works. Boston: P. Donahoe. 1868. Edited by J. M. F.) F.

To remedy the evil done by this interpolated London edition, another was immediately issued, contemporaneously in America and England:

An Address to the Roman Catholics of the United States of America. By a Catholic Clergyman. Annapolis: Printed by Frederick Green. And Worcester: Reprinted by J. Tymbbs, at the Cross. MDCCLXXXV. pp. 120. 8vo. F.

In a short preface is remarked: "A spurious and subreptitious edition of Mr. Carroll's Address to Mr. Wharton having been lately smuggled into the world in a clandestine manner, at London," etc. Indeed, Fr. O'Leary was rather hasty, and his services officious. This called forth:

C.—A Reply to an Address to the Roman Catholics of the United States of America. By the author of A Letter to the Roman Catholics of the City of Worcester. To which are annexed a few Observations on a late Pamphlet entitled An Essay on Matter, in a Letter to a Friend. Philadelphia: Printed by Charles Cist, at the corner of Fourth and Arch Streets. 1785. F.

Pp. 97. 12mo. Then follows advertisement, p. unnumbered, on the Essay on Matter; pp. 1-9, Letter: "February 20, 1785. My Amiable Friend." Signed, "Madam, Your most obedient, humble servant, C. H. W. Miss V—g, W—n." Last p. unnumbered, some additions and corrections to previous pamphlet.

[Charles Cist, b. in St. Petersburg, Russia, brought up a druggist, studied "physic," and came to America in 1769, and engaged with Henry Miller, a German editor and publisher in Philadelphia, as a translator of English into German. In 1775, he entered into partnership under the firm of Styner & Cist, Second Street, corner Coat's Alley. He died in Bethlehem, Pa., December 1, 1805.

Green, F., son of Jonas and Anne Catherine, succeeded his mother (d. March 23, 1775, æt. 42) as printer to the Colony of Maryland. The firm still continues. They are the fifth generation of a regular descent of printers in this country. Their great-great-grandfather began printing at Cambridge, Mass., 1649. I. Thomas, History, etc., A.D. 1810. Does B. Green, publisher, in Boston, of Brownson's Quarterly Review, belong to the clan?]

D.—A Few Remarks on an Address to the Roman Catholics of the United States of America, occasioned by A Letter Addressed to the Catholics of Worcester by Mr. Wharton, their late Chaplain. By the Right Rev. Dr. Carroll. By a Fair Inquirer [John Hawkins, apost. priest]. Worcester: Printed for the Author. Sold by J. Tymbbs, and most of the booksellers in town and country. pp. 24. 12mo. F.

Page 1, "To the Reader," signed "Barborne Lodge, Saturday, July 9." At p. 24, before Finitis, signed J. H. I remember to have seen the date 1796 connected with this production. Certainly the writer speaks of Dr. Carroll as a bishop (he was elected May, 1789); unless he mistakes for a bishopric the faculties of a Vicar Apostolic, bestowed by Pius VI. on Dr. C., June 9, 1784. J. H. apostatized in 1782-4, v. Milner's Suppl. Memoirs.

John Hawkins, in the short preface above mentioned, remarks, "A work has long since been under the press in reply to a late Caveat, and which will be given to the public with all convenient speed." To wit:

E.—A Caveat addressed to the Catholics of Worcester against the Insinuating Letter of Mr. Wharton. By William Pilling [O.S.F.]. Quotation from Epis. of John, c. ii., vs. 18, 19, Protestant translation, and "St. Cyprian De Unitate Ecclesie." London: Printed by J. P. Coghlan, in Duke Street, near Grosvenor Square. MDCCCLXXXV. pp. incomplete. 12mo. F.

The late Abp. Spalding, of Baltimore, had a complete copy of it, and to his Grace I am indebted for my copy. His Grace seemed never tired of answering my many importunate questions. Fr. W. Pilling "was a well-read scholar, a clear-headed theologian, and an exemplary missionary."—Dr. Oliver: English Franciscan Writers.

Hawkins' endeavor to defend himself in the person of his fellow-apostate Wharton, drew upon him Rev. Dr. Berington's

F.—Reflections Addressed to Hawkins. By Joseph Berington. 1775. Intended as an answer to Hawkins's Appeal. Cfr. Flanagan's History, v. ii. p. 385, ad calcem.

G.—An Essay on the Law of Celibacy Imposed on the Clergy of the Roman Catholic Church, and observed in all the Religious Orders Abroad: in which are delineated its Rise and Progress from the most early ages of its existence down to our present times; and the impropriety of this Ecclesiastical Constitution is Shown, whether it be considered in a moral, a physical, or a political light; as also, A summary account is given of the Origin of the MONASTIC Life, of the prejudices which chiefly contributed to introduce it, and in what manner these have been perpetuated, etc. interspersed with various remarks upon several other observances of the Roman Catholic Discipline. Quotations: August. lib. 1, De Trinit.; Idem Epis. 238 Ad Pascent.; John 5, 39. Worcester:

Printed and sold by M. Lewis, in High Street; sold also by J. F. & C. Rivington, No. 62 St. Paul's Church-yard, and J. Bew, Paternoster-Row, London; Fletcher, Oxford; Pearson & Rollason, Birmingham; Pugh, Hereford; and Evans, Gloucester. pp. 195. 12mo. F.

John Hawkins is the author. Like all apostate priests, he turns back to throw mud at his mother: Protestant ministers after becoming Catholics do not turn around to vilify their former associations—a fact worth recording.

Elsewhere will be found in this Bibliographia the title of the famous Catholic Question in 1813 (v. Sampson). Dr. Wharton improved the opportunity to have another fling at the Church, and published:

A Short Answer to "A True Exposition of the Doctrine of the Catholic Church touching the Sacrament of Penance, with The Grounds on which this doctrine is founded," Contained in an Appendix to the Catholic Question (v. infra Sampson) decided in the City of New York, in July, 1813. By Charles H. Wharton, D.D., Rector of St. Mary's Church, Burlington, N. J. (Some texts.) Philadelphia: Published by Moses Thomas. J. Maxwell, printer. 1814. pp. 130. 12mo. F.

It is dedicated "To the Rt. Rev. the Bishops, etc. etc., by their affectionate humble Servant and Brother, etc." It called forth:

A Brief Reply to A Short Answer to a True Exposition of the Doctrine of the Catholic Church touching the Sacrament of Penance, etc. New York: Printed for the Author, by Sherman & Pudney, No. 30 Nassau Street. 1815. pp. 178. Svo. F.

The author, Rev. Fr. S. F. O'Callaghan, O.S.F., of Charleston, S. C., dedicates the work, over his own name, to the Hon. Maj.-Gen. Ch. C. Pinkney. Wharton replied to it. v. supra A.

CARROLL, CHARLES, OF CARROLLTON.

It is useless to give here a sketch of his life. Of his famous Journal, published in 1845, by Murphy, of Baltimore, of which I have a costly copy, with nineteen illustrations and C. Carroll's autograph, I will speak in the second part of the Bibliographia.

But Mr. Carroll was an early Catholic writer. As early as 1765 (twenty-one years before his reverend cousin's Address, z. supra), when he returned from Europe, "a finished scholar and an accomplished gentleman," he engaged in public controversy in vindication of the colonists during the excitement of the Stamp Act. The Maryland Gazette was his organ. He was only twenty-seven years old. The Gazette was in so much demand, that Mr. Galloway, Speaker of the Pennsylvania Assembly, copied it with his own hand, in order to send it to Benjamin Franklin. Afterwards, Charles Carroll wrote over the signature of "The First Citizen." In 1765, the Gazette (it had existed since 1727) was discontinued on account of the Stamp Act, but occasionally its printers issued a paper called The Opposition of the Maryland Gazette, "which is not dead, but sleepeth" (Kenny, p. 110). Most probably Charles Carroll contributed to, if he was not the instigator of, these papers. He wrote also, says Clarigny, many articles for the Pennsylvania Gazette. See N. Dwight's The Lives of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence. New York: A. S. Barnes & Burr, 51 and 52 John Street. 1860.

I have in my possession a bronze medal, rare, and of which no specimen is to be found in the collection at the Mint.

Legend—CHARLES CARROLL OF CARROLLTON.

Reverse—A wreath, fastened by a scroll and pen, enclosing the words "The Surviving Signer of the Declaration of the Independence after the 50th Anniversary."

Legend—Upon entering his 90th year.

Exergue—Sept. XX. MDCCCXXIV.

J. Colburn, Esq., of the N. E. Historico-Genealogical Society, informs me that the die was made at the expense of the family, and now belongs to them. Why not have it restruck by the Catholics on the Centennial Anniversary of the Independence of America? Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, died November 14, 1832, in his ninety-sixth year; v. Memoir, by R. H. Clarke, in Baltimore Metropolitan, iv. p. 329, and Catholic Expositor, vol. v., 1843, p. 208, by J. H., and Eulogy on Charles Carroll of Carrollton. Dobbin & Murphy for Bernard Dornin, Roman Catholic Library, No. 30 Baltimore Street. 1809. [Copy formerly belonging to Mrs. Patterson of Baltimore.] pp. xxiv.—285. F.

After p. 285, the Contents, pp. i., ii., iii.; eight pages unnumbered, Subscribers' Names; two do., Advertisements of books already printed.

[The first edition appeared in England, 1737. It so provoked Middleton and his friends that they endeavored to procure Challoner's arrest under pretence of his being disaffected to the Government. He therefore withdrew to the Continent. Became a convert in 1704, was consecrated Coadj. Bp. of Dr. Petra, Vic. Ap. of London, January 29, 1741. Of him wrote a Protestant minister: "January 12, 1781. Buried Dr. Challoner, popish priest, titular Bp. of Debra, London, and Salisbury (?). Vic. Ap. for the Roman Church in England, a very good, very pious, very learned man, one of extraordinary qualities." During his administration the Church suffered terribly, perhaps no less than under Queen Elizabeth.]

Co., at the Literary Rooms, corner of Wall and Nassau Streets. 1814. pp. 37. 24mo. F.

[10,000 copies were sold at once of the first edition. Chateaubriand issued a second and revised edition. The Ode is by Lord Byron.]

1815. The Beauties of Christianity. . . . Translated from the French by Frederic Shoberl. With a Preface and Notes by the Rev. Henry Kett, B.D., Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford. Philadelphia: Printed for and Published by M. Carey. 1815. pp. xiv. and 524. 8vo. F.

[Mr. Kett says: "To render the work more palatable to the Protestant reader, a few chapters and paragraphs (!) . . . are omitted, and a few (!) expressions softened; yet some descriptions of the Catholic ceremonies are so beautiful, that it is presumed no reader of taste, whatever may be his religious opinions, will pronounce they had better been left out. A few long notes have been omitted, . . . some short ones are introduced in order to confirm the statements of the author, . . . and to do justice to the Protestant cause, etc." And Carey published this garbled work of an author yet living!]

1816. Recollections of Italy, England, and America. With Essays on Various Subjects in Morals and Literature. Philadelphia: Published by M. Carey. F.

Title-page; verso, Geo. Phillips, Printer, Carlisle; iii., iv., Contents; v.-xiii., Editor's Preface; 364 pp. Text.

[For this work as well as for Eustace, v. infra, I am indebted to the kindness of my old and highly esteemed friend, John Murphy, of Baltimore.

A note worth being carefully read: "Fr. de Ravignan—his zeal redoubled at the sight of death approaching his friend (Chateaubriand)—by his presence and his words gave comfort and courage to the veteran politician and writer now standing on the brink of the grave; beyond the fading poetry of life, beyond the shades of death, now almost seeming to lose their darkness, he pointed out the bright, all-important reality, Hope, the daughter of Faith, and that better immortality which is not of this world. The great writer, brought face to face with eternity, with faculties yet unimpaired, resolved to cut out of his works every page which his conscience rejected. The happiness he felt in tearing them up was some compensation for his grief in having written them. On his death-bed, he dictated the following memorandum to his nephew, who put it in our hands:

"I declare, before God, that I retract every passage in my writings opposed to the Faith, to good morals, or to sound principles in general.

"Signed in behalf of my uncle, Francis de Chateaubriand, who is unable to hold the pen, and agreeably to his request.

"GEOFFROY-LOUIS DE CHATEAUBRIAND."

"When this declaration had been put in writing, the dying man caused it to be read to him, insisted even on reading it with his own eyes, then, with peace in his soul, . . . he passed without a struggle to that God, etc.

"This last will has hitherto (1860) remained without effect. But the literary heritage of the author of the Memoirs from Beyond the Tomò no longer belongs to his family."—From De Ravignan's Life, by De Ponlevoy. Paris. 1860. Madame Ré-camier deserves much credit also in bringing about this reconciliation of the Viscount's soul with his God. An interesting biography of Chateaubriand is given in the Baltimore Metropolitan, iii. 78, 201.]

[Clavigero was a Jesuit. B. in Mexico, A.D. 1720, he followed the fate of his brethren after the mysterious edict of Charles IV., a Bourbon of Spain, who banished them from all Spanish dominions. He settled in Cesena, Papal States, where he died in 1793. There he published (1780, '81, 4 vols. 8vo) in Italian the great history whereof we have given the title, and also a History of California, a posthumous work published in Italian, Venice, 1789, 2 vols. 8vo. The Mexican history was translated into English by C. Cullen (not mentioned in Allibone), and published in London, 1787, 2 vols. 4to. There also exists a German abridged translation and a Spanish. His Mexican history was the result of thirty-six years uninterrupted travel over that country.]

An interesting parallel:—

The late Amos Lawrence, of Boston, was a rigid observer of Cornaro's system. "His extreme sensitiveness . . . led him to adopt a system . . . which limited him to the use of certain kinds of food. . . . It was of the most simple kind, and was taken in small quantities, after being weighed in a balance, which always stood before him," etc. See more interesting details at pp. 123, 4, and 326 in his Life, by his son, W. DAPONTE, LORENZO.

[Born in Ceneda, Venetian States, March 10, 1749, d. New York, August 17, 1838. After an adventurous career at Venice, Vienna, and London, during which he wrote the libretto for Mozart's Don Juan, he came to New York in 1805, became a teacher of Italian, was prominent in introducing the opera into the United States, and many years Professor of Italian literature in Columbia College.

DAVID, J. B.

[See the interesting life of this great missionary of the West in Dr. Spalding's Sketches of Kentucky. Suffice here to remark that he was born near Nantes, France, A.D. 1761. He came to this country in 1792, was consecrated Bishop Coadjutor to Dr. Flaget, of Bardstown, Ky., Aug. 15, 1819, and d. July 12, 1841, æt. 81. See Life of Bishop Flaget, by Abp. Spalding, and Baltimore Catholic Almanac, 1842, p. 167, and 1846, p. 50. His very likeness betrays the soul of a saint. In 1809 he published a prayer-book, the True Piety. It is a reprint of the Cork edition of 1797. I have before me the copy used by Bishop David, with the Alterations in his handwriting. It only forms the groundwork of the much enlarged American edition. Here I give the title, with the portion omitted or altered in Italics :

True Piety; or, The Day Well Spent. Being a Catholic Manual of Chosen Prayers, Devout Practices, and Solid Instructions. Adapted to every State of Life. Taken partly from the French. "Ask and you shall receive, that your joy be full." —ST. JOHN, xvi. 24. First American Edition. With considerable Additions. By a Catholic Clergyman of Baltimore, and with the Authority of the Right Rev. Bishop Carroll. [These two editions differ from the Cork and the David editions, and from each other. In Bishop Spalding's Sketches, at page 256, we read that "Fr. David's Prayer-Book, like many other works, has since been improved for the worst; and Fr. David was wont to call the new editions, with a smile, the false True Pieties."]]

[I have been unable to find a copy of it. But Archbishop Spalding has favored me with a copy of the edition, published in Louisville by Webb & Levering, 18—. "Compiled chiefly from Bishop David's original volume," write the publishers. If I well remember, I think I saw at St. Sulpice, in Baltimore, a catechism in the handwriting of Bishop David, and composed by himself.]

DEPONS, F.—Voyage to the Eastern Part of Terra Firma, or the Spanish Main, in South America, during the Years 1801, 2, 3, 4. Containing a Description of the Territory under the Jurisdiction of the Captain-General of Caraccas, composed of the Provinces of Venezuela, Maracaibo, Varinas, Spanish Guiana, Cumana, and the Islands of Margaretta; and embracing everything Relative to the Discovery, Conquest, Topography, Legislation, Commerce, Finances, Inhabitants, and Productions of the Provinces, together with a View of the Manners and Customs of the Spaniards, and the Savage as well as the Civilized Indians. By F. D., late Agent of the French Government at Caraccas. Translated by an American Gentleman. New York: Printed by and for I. Riley & Co., No. 1 City Hotel, Broadway. 1806. 3 vols. 8vo. F.

I. Map; pp. xxxii. and 348. II. 256. III. 293.

[It is evidently the work of a Catholic writer, although he may at times write with inaccuracy. Nor can any one find fault with his touching upon what he honestly considers an abuse. Chapter VII. will give the keytone of the work, which is introduced by a letter to the publisher (was I. Riley a Catholic in profession, as he was in name ?), by the celebrated sceptic, Dr. Sam. L. Mitchill, who gives it as a source of recommendation to many that the author writes more like a man of business than a man of science. The introductory remarks are a hasty translation by the doctor. The text does not seem to bear evidence of perfect English style, and much less of one well acquainted with Catholic terms. Of the author I have been unable to find any information. My copy bears the autograph of W. Irving. The original edition is entitled "Voyage à la partie Orientale de la Terre-ferme, dans l'Amérique Méridionale, fait pendant les années 1801, 1802, 1803, et 1804: Contenant la Description de la Capitainerie générale de Caracas, composée des Provinces de Venezuela, Maracaibo, Varinas, la Guiane Espagnole, Cumana, et de l'Ile de la Margarite; et renfermant . . . par F. Depons, ex-Agent du Gouvernement Français à Caracas. Avec une Carte géographique, et les Plans de la ville Capitale et des ports principaux. Bonus historicus est qui de iis scribit rebus, quibus ipse interfuit. Polib. Hist. lib. 12. A Paris, Colnet, etc., etc., etc., etc. 1806. 3 vols. 12mo. F.

An English edition appeared in 1807. London: Longman, Hurst, Rees & Orme. 2 vols. 8vo. F.

The title differs from the American. It does not avow it to be "A translation by an American gentleman," although the text is the same, with the exception of the preface, which is given at full length, whilst Dr. Mitchill's, in the American edition, is not only hasty, but cramped and curtailed.]

[Dryden became a Catholic under James II., and d. May 1, 1707, æt. 70. His translation of the Life of St. Francis Xavier, from the French of Père D. Bouhours—a penance imposed on him, it is said, on his conversion, to atone for reproachable compositions—appeared in London, 1683, with the title, "Life of S. Francis Xavier, of the Society of Jesus;" translated from the French of Dominick Bouhours into English. London, 1683. 8vo." Did Mr. Sanford republish it? Allibone, in a fair notice of Dryden, does not mention this item of his life.]

DUBOIS, ABBE J. A.—Description of the Characters, Manners, and Customs of the People of India, and of their Institutions, Religious and Civil. By the A. J. A. D., Missionary in the Mysore. Translated from the French Manuscript. Philadelphia: Published by M. Carey & Son, No. 126, Chesnut Street. 1818. 2 vols. 8vo. F.

I. pp. iii.-x., Advertisement, dated London, Dec. 2, 1816; pp. xi.-xxiv., Preface and Contents; Text, 25-390.

II. pp. ii.-viii., Contents; Text, 9-368.

[Rev. Mr. Dubois "escaped from one of the fusillades of the French Revolution, and then lived among the Hindoos as one of themselves." He was highly esteemed by both the officers of the East India Company and those of the British army and Government. The work was written before 1807, and remained in the East India Company Library until it was translated. This edition is a reprint of the English of 1816, which was made on a translation of the French MS. entrusted by the author to the hands of Major Wilks, Acting President at Mysore, in 1806. In December, 1867, I bought, at the sale of Dr. Jenk's library, the following work, on the fly-page whereof we read, "From the author to his respected and venerated brother, the Rev. Dr. Baldwin, Boston"; and then, in Dr. Jenk's handwriting, "Bo't at sale of late Rev. Dr. B.'s books." Here is the title: Reply to the Abbé J. A. Dubois's Letters on the State of Christianity in India, originally published in the "Friend of India." Serampore: Printed at the Mission Press. 1824. pp. 208. 8vo. Was it printed at the expense of the A. B. F. M.? Then, surely, money never was more wantonly thrown away.—The Hon. and Rev. Ignatius Spencer, a Passionist, made the following entry in his diary:

"Thursday, Oct. 3, 1844, PARIS.

"Took the omnibus to Rue de Bac. Had an interesting conversation with the Abbé Dubois, now 80 years old. . . He receives a pension of £100 from England."

DUBOURG, MOST REV. W. LOUIS VALENTINE.

[Born February 14, 1766, at Cape Français, San Domingo; entered St. Sulpice Seminary, in Paris; arrived in Baltimore, December, 1794; entered St. Sulpice, 1795. Whilst superintendent of St. Mary's Seminary, if any attack was made on the Catholic Church by the papers, and if refused insertion to a reply, by a courteous note that the reply would be sent to another paper, with notes of explanation for such a course, his rejoinders were always inserted, and it was a case often repeated. Was he the author of St. Mary's Seminary and the Catholics at large Vindicated; also of The Sons of St. Dominic? (v. Brute and titles infra.) Dr. Dubourg was consecrated Bishop of New Orleans, in Rome, September 24, 1815; November 19, 1826, he took possession of the Diocese of Montauban, in France, formerly occupied by Dr. Cheverus; February, 1833, transferred to the Archdiocese of Besançon; he there died the 12th of the following December, æt. 65. (Cfr. Catholic Almanac, Baltimore, 1839, page 50; Catholic Telegraph, Cincinnati, 1834. In a pamphlet, Battle of New Orleans: A Poem, Dr. Dubourg's address to General Jackson is reported at page 33; Annales de la Propagation de la Foi, ii., 405, and his letter to the Council, ib. i. and ii., page 394. v. Clarke's Deceased Bishops.]

DUPONCEAU, P. S.

[“As far as our literature is concerned, we owe much to Duponceau, who first drew the attention of the learned to the philosophical and ethnological labors of early Catholic missions in America, China, and the East at large.”—Prize Essay on American Catholic Literature, Baltimore Metropolitan Magazine, March, 1854. “Du Ponceau, claimed as a Catholic author, was a very bad Catholic, to say the least, having neither lived (at least for forty years) nor died in the communion of the Church.”—Ed. Metropolitan Magazine. Be this as it may, he has contributed to the knowledge and value of Catholic literature, never joined any particular sect, never professed anti-Catholic sentiments (unless for the limited part he took in the Hogan schism), and for what regards his last hour, what do we know? Peter Stephen Duponceau, b. in France, June 3, 1760, d. in Philadelphia, April 1, 1844; made studies preparatory for the priesthood; landed at Portsmouth, N. H., December 1, 1777; was attached to Baron Steuben's staff. In July, 1781, he became a citizen, and since 1785 was one of the most successful members of the American bar. In the Hogan imbroglio he sided with the schismatics, until he became disgusted with the whole affair, and, with M. Carey, and others, withdrew his name and influence. M. Duponceau, whilst practising law, translated several valuable books on law, and published original essays on the same subject. In connection with the American Philosophical Society, of which he had been a member since 1791, he published, in 1819, a report on The Structure of the Indian Language. On the occasion of Citizen Genet's reception at Philadelphia, Duponceau wrote an ode, which was translated by Philip Freneau. For more details about Mr. Duponceau's literary labors, see second part of this Bibliographia. I am informed, from a creditable source, that the late Right Rev. Dr. Bruté, of Vincennes, took great interest in the spiritual welfare of Peter S. Duponceau, with what result we may yet find out.]

B. P. L.

[Rev. Benedict Joseph Fenwick succeeded Bishop Cheverus in the Episcopal See of Boston in 1825. For a notice of this eminent prelate see R. H. Clarke's Lives of Deceased Bishops, and the truly eloquent tribute paid to his memory by Dr. O. A. Brownson (Brownson's Quarterly Review, October, 1846). The following Latin eulogy, written by a young Italian on the occasion of his death, and privately circulated, was never published. It was intended for a scroll to be placed in the coffin at the Bishop's burial in the grave-yard attached to the Jesuit College of Holy Cross, near Worcester, Mass. The Bishop's grave, although not neglected, was for many years left unadorned by any monument. The lamented Rev. Mr. Boyce alludes to this neglect in his Mary Lee (p. 319, Balt. ed., 1868) in words of much feeling, indeed, but, perhaps, in not very good taste. However, a reparation has been made by the Rev. John Brady, in 1867, under the superintendence of Rev. John Powers, of Worcester. An elegant and costly monument of white marble adorns the grave of one of the very best of men.

[v. supra, Brosius. Catholic World, Nov., 1865 (translated from the Revue Contemporaine, Bruxelles), Very Rev. Thomas Hayden's Discourse, 1848. In February, 1866, Dr. Hayden delivered a Lecture on the Life of D. Gallitzin, at Birmingham, Penn.; but we think, to our great disappointment, it was not published. An interesting memoir of “The Pastor of the Alleghanies” will be found in the Biographical Annual, 1841, by the eloquent and classical pen of the late Charles Constantine Pise, D.D. The fourth volume of the Metropolitan, anno 1856, p. 201, May, contains a notice of that saintly missionary by my excellent friend and college-mate Richard H. Clarke, Esq., of the New York bar. The Cornhill Magazine contains an interesting memoir of Rev. D. Gallitzin's mother, copied into Littell's Living Age, Boston, December, 1871. At p. 44 of The Catholic Family Almanac, for 1872, New York, Cath. Pub. Society, we have a striking engraving representing the meeting of Rev. Fr. Lemcke, O.S.B., now of Elizabeth, N. J., with the Missionary Prince. The anxiety which is felt for the preservation of all that refers to American Catholic history will warrant the insertion here of the following words copied from the New York Freeman's Journal:

“Fr. Lemcke gathered all he could get hold of here of Prince Gallitzin's missionary life in America, and was perfectly posted on the early history of Prince D. Gallitzin in Europe. He published in Munster, if we recollect aright what was told us, a most interesting and connected history of this hero of the Cross.”

Notice of "A Memoir on the Life and Character of the Rev. Prince Demetrius A. de Gallitzin, Founder of Loretto and Catholicity in Cambria Co., Pa., Apostle of the Alleghanies. By V. R. Thomas Heyden, of Bedford, Pa. Baltimore: J. Murphy & Co. 1869."

Rev. Mr. Gallitzin's name will recur in the second part of the Bibliographia.]

GANDOLPHY, P.—Sermons on the Ancient Faith. Advertised by Dornin, 1815, for imminent publication, in last page of Poor Man's Catechism. I doubt whether they were published.

[Peter Gandolphy, an English priest, was educated at Stonyhurst, and died at Eastsheen, England, July 9, 1821, aged 41. He wrote polemics on the limits of temporal authority in matters concerning church discipline. The V. A. of London put a censure on his work, but G. appealed to Rome, where he personally defended his position. In the library of the Archbishop of Baltimore I found "A Series of Letters addressed to the Protestant Community on the Secret Causes of the Increase of Catholics: Intended to Counteract and Expose the Gross and Calumnious Misrepresentations of Catholics and their Doctrine. By a Catholic Priest. 'Redimentes opportunitatem quoniam dies mali sunt.'—Eph. 5th chap. 18th ver. New York: Reprinted from the London copy. James Bloomfield, printer, 1826, pp. 108, 12mo." Page 2 states that "The following pages are offered to the American public as the production of one of the most eminent and valuable of men. . . . New York, Sept. 16, 1826." The italics are underlined by Abp. A. Marechal, who adds: "This Rev. Gandolphy was condemned by the See; they say he died penitent." Allibone gives a list of his works; so does De Feller; but two of his works were put on the Index, July 27, 1828—1st.

that advertised by Dornin; 2d, An Exposition of Liturgy. . . . Una cum testificatione seu Epistola quadam alterius auctoris (qui tamen eandem epistolam laudabiliter retractavit) sive conjunctim sive seorsim impressa, que incipit Omnibus et Singulis Anglice et Latine scripta, et Romæ data 13 Nov., 1816, in qua temere et falso asseritur dicta opera amplam approbationem a Sede Apostolica obtinisse. Since writing the above, I have met with the work announced by Dornin: A Defence of the Ancient Faith; or, A Full Exposition of the Christian Religion, in a Series of Controversial Sermons. 4 vols., 8vo. London, 1813.]

GARDEN of the Soul. v. Challoner.

[“Coyne, on his way to London, paid Dr. Milner a visit at Wolverhampton, and in the morning the Bishop said: ‘Now, Mr. Coyne, I am going to say Mass; you need not come down to the chapel.’ And, opening a door in the wall, he said: ‘Here is a little tribune opening on the chapel where I say my prayers.’ Coyne found on the Bishop’s kneeling-place a Following of Christ, a Think Well On’t, and a Garden of the Soul, all worn and blackened with the Bishop’s thumbs. When Dr. Doyle heard this, a tear burst into his eyes, and he exclaimed, ‘That gives me a greater idea of Dr. Milner than his End of Controversy and all he has written—that he should constantly nourish his soul with those simple, but solid manuals of the people.’—From a letter of Dr. Ullathorne to Mr. Fitzpatrick, reported in his Life of Bishop Doyle, vol. ii. p. 14, Boston, P. Donahoe, 1864.]

GASS, PATRICK.—A Journal of the Voyages and Travels of a Corps of Discovery, under the Command of Capt. Lewis and Capt. Clarke, of the Army of the United States, from the mouth of the river Missouri through the interior parts of North America to the Pacific Ocean, during the years 1804, 1805, and 1806. Containing an authentic relation of the most interesting transactions during the expedition, a description of the country, and an account of its inhabitants, soil, climate, curiosities, and vegetable and animal productions. By Patrick Gass, one of the persons employed in the expedition. With Geographical and Explanatory Notes by the publisher. (Copy-right secured according to Law.) Pittsburgh: Printed by Zadoc Cramer, for David McKeehan, Publisher and Proprietor. . . . 1807. F.

Pp. viii. 262. 7. Allibone, ad n.

— 1810. Title as above. Words by the publisher omitted; added, Second Edition. With six Engravings. Philadelphia: Printed for Mathew Carey, No. 122, Market Street. 1810. F.

Same types and paging as above. At p. iii., "Preface by the publisher of the First Edition." Although the publisher is David McKeehan, who also entered the title in the Clerk's Office (District of Pennsylvania), April 11, 1807, yet the preface reads like the style of M. Carey. It contains two engravings, curiosities of the art.

[The larger work by Lewis & Clarke has gone through many editions, both in England and America. I have more than a dozen titles in my list. Gass was the first narrator. It seems he put his crude and uncouth MS. in Mr. Carey's hands, who licked it into some shape. However, Gass had the honor of a French translation :

"Voyage des Capitaines Lewis et Clarke . . . fait dans les années 1804, 1805, et 1806 . . . Redigé en Anglais par Patrice Gass, employé dans l'Expedition . . . traduit en français par A. J. N. Lallemand, l'un de Secrétaires de la Marine. Avec des Notes . . . et une Carte gravée par J. B. Jardien. A Paris: Arthus-Bertrand. 1810." 12mo, pp. 443. F. I think I have seen a Dutch translation of it. Mathew Carey published a fourth edition, Philadelphia, 1812.]

GASTON, WILLIAM.—Specch of the Hon. W. G., of North Carolina, on the Bill to authorize a Loan of $25,000,000, delivered in the House of Representatives of the U. S., February, 1814. Washington City: Printed at the office of the Scnator. pp. 53. 12mo. F.

[He opposed the bill intended to place that sum in the hands of the President for the purchase of Canada.—W. G. b. in Newbern, N. C., September 19, 1778, died in Raleigh, January 23, 1844. He was "the first student who entered his name in the rolls of Georgetown College" (corresp. Baltimore Mirror, Jan. 11, '68); graduated in Princeton, N. J., in 1796; U. S. Senator in 1813. Although laboring under Catholic disabilities, he became Judge of the Supreme Court, and with him the clause in the Constitution of N. C. against Catholics became a dead-letter.

Allibone does not mention him, as, in fact, Catholic names are slightly considered by that compiler. Mr. Gaston was baptized in his infancy in the Catholic Church, his mother being a Catholic, educated by the Dominican Nuns in France. His father was an Irish Presbyterian, and formerly a Surgeon in the British Navy. Judge Gaston's accomplished daughter, Mrs. E. G. Graham, lives in Upper Marlborough, Md.

In O'Connor's War of 1812, p. 179, 4th ed., we read the following: "Mrs. Gaston, of Newburn, wife of the Member of Congress, being told that the British had landed and would shortly be in possession of Newburn, fell into convulsive fits, and expired in a few hours."

"HON. WILLIAM GASTON, N. C.—The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Catholic Mirror made an excellent suggestion when he wrote that some memorial of William Gaston should be erected in Georgetown College—he having been the first student who entered his name on the roll of that time-honored Alma Mater. Judge Gaston was one of the greatest men of his time: Representative in the councils of his own State, United States Senator, Judge of the Supreme Court, and a lawyer inferior to none, and—the best of all—an excellent Catholic. We suggest that the next anniversary of his birth (Sept. 19, 1878) should be kept; or that of his opening the list of so many brave young men who have honored Georgetown College. Invite some distinguished man who will do honor to the name by skilful arrangement of diligent researches made of the particulars of his life, to deliver a biographical oration on that day. It should be some old student, and, if possible, a member of the Philodemic Society from the same State. We Catholics (and our Catholic institutions are to be blamed for it) neglect too much those memories of great and good men whose deeds should be treasured in the hearts of posterity. William Gaston has been lying in his grave four-and twenty years. Should not Georgetown College show her appreciation for the honor of having been the Alma Mater of such a distinguished son? We remember the reverence with which the lamented Dr. Ryder always mentioned the name of Judge Gaston. It was a household name with him. Let the members of the Philodemic Society take the matter in hand at once. We feel confident that none will refuse to contribute his quota to defray necessary expenses, nay, it will be a source of pleasure with them as it will be with GAUDENTIO DI LUCCA.—The Life and Adventures of Sig. —. Written by Himself. Giving an Account of a Country in the midst of the vast Desarts of Africa, being unknown to any persons except Sig. Gaudentio, and its inhabitants, altho' as Ancient, Populous, and Civilized, as the Chinese. With a particular Account of their Antiquity, Origin, Religion, Customs, Policy, etc.; the manner how they got first over those vast Desarts, and their method of travelling. Interspersed with several most surprizing and curious Incidents. Copied from the Original Manuscript kept in St. Mark's Library at Venice. First American Edition. Norwich: Printed and sold by John Trumbull, at his Printing-office, few rods west from the Court House. M,DC,CXCVI. pp. 130. 16mo.

—— — The Adventures of Sig. —. Being the Substance of his Examination before the Fathers of the Inquisition at Bologna, in Italy: Giving an Account of an Unknown Country, in the midst of the Deserts of Africa, the Origin and Antiquity of the People, their Religion, Customs, and Laws. Copied from the Original Manuscript in St. Mark's Library at Venice. With critical notes of the learned Signor Rhedi. To which is prefixed: A Letter of the Secretary of the Inquisition, shewing the reasons of Signor Gaudentio's being apprehended, and the manner of it. Translated from the Italian. Philadelphia: Reprinted by William Conover, No. 71 Walnut Street. 1799. pp. 320. 12mo. F.

[The work is very interesting, seemingly written at the Inquisition in Bologna, and giving details of the economy of that tribunal as it existed in the Roman States. The Preface is written by an Englishman.]

[An English edition in my possession bears this title: The Adventures of Signor Gaudentio Di Lucca; being the Substance of his Examination before the Fathers of the Inquisition, at Bologna, in Italy. By Bishop Berkeley, author of The Minute Philosopher, etc. Dublin: for John Cumming, 16, Lower Ormond Quay, 1821, pp. xxiv and 215. 12mo.

It is divided into unnumbered chapters, each chapter having at its end "Remarks of Signor Rhedi." The various editions differ in many things as to the matter. Bp. Berkeley, in 1713, accompanied the Earl of Peterborough to Italy as Chaplain and Secretary of Legation (to Sicily. Allibone); but remained scarcely a year. Was he the author of Gaudentio? All the sources of information at my disposal have failed me. The work evidently belongs to the category of the works contained in this Bibliographia; Catholic matters are mixed up in it; it is "A Curiosity of Literature."]

GAVIN.—The Master-Key of Popery; Giving a full Account of all the Customs of the Priests and Friars, and the Rites and Ceremonies of the Popish Religion. In four parts. By Anthony Gavin, one of the Roman Catholic Priests of Saragossa. To which is added an account of the Inquisition of Goa, extracted from a recent work entitled Christian Researches in Asia. Printed for the publisher. 1812. pp. x and 300. 12mo. F.

[A Protestant lady found the work so infamous that she burned it.—I have some indistinct recollection that the poor wretch died reconciled with Mother Church.

Since the above was in print, I have obtained the following edition: "A Master-Key to Popery: in five Parts. . . . By D. Antonio Gavin, Born and Educated in Spain, some years Secular Priest in the Church of Rome, and since 1715, Minister of the Church of England. The Third Edition, carefully corrected. GOETZ, JOHN NEPOMUCEN.—Sermon [German] on the Sanctity of Christian Churches. On the anniversary of the solemn opening of the German Catholic Church of the Holy Trinity, Philadelphia. Preached Nov. 20, 1796, by J. N. Goetz, Secular Priest, and formerly Professor and Preacher at the Royal Academy of Wienerisch, Neustadt. Phila.: H. Schweitzer. 1796. pp. 20. 8vo. R.

GOTHER, REV. JOHN.—A Papist Misrepresented and Re-Presented; or, A Two-fold Character of Popery—the first containing a Sum of the Superstitions, Idolatries, Cruelties, Treacheries, and wicked Principles laid to their charge; the other laying open that Religion which those termed Papists own and profess, the chief articles of their faith, and the principal Grounds and Reasons which attach them to it. By the Rev. J. Gother. First American edition from the nineteenth London edition. Revised and published by a Catholic clergyman of Baltimore. Baltimore: Printed for the publisher by J. W. Butler. 1808. F.

Pp. ii-iv, Amer. Pref.; v-xi, Introduction; blank and 13-95.

HOGANIANA.

[William Hogan has gained too great a notoriety in one of the severest trials of the Catholic Church in this country, and his rebellious attempts at subverting the fundamental laws of Church discipline have such bearings on the history of the Catholic Church in the U. S. that I have deemed it operæ pretium to give the titles of such pamphlets issued in connection with Hoganism as may prove good reference to the future historian. My information is drawn from my own collection, from that of the late G. W. Richards, Esq., of Philadelphia, who courteously supplied me with some titles, and, above all, from five thick octavo volumes of documents preserved in the library of the Bishop of Boston. See a detailed history of the schism in the History of the Catholic Church in the U. S., by H. de Courcsey & J. G. Shea; New York, Dunigan & Bro., 1856, pp. 217 et seqq.; Rt. Rev. Dr. England's Works; Baltimore, J. Murphy & Co., 1849, vol. v., pp. 108 et seqq. Poor Hogan ended his play by the usual farce, as Erasmus would say, became a Protestant, and married. His life was not the most moral: he escaped from Bridewell in New York; held an office in the custom-house in Boston; died in a public-house in Nashua or Peterboro, N. H., about the close of 1847 or the beginning of 1848. He was the author of High and Low Mass in the Roman Catholic Church; with Comments [F.]; Concord, N. H.; Ch. J. Sill, 1846. Synopsis of Popery as it Was and as it Is; 12mo pamphlet; Boston, 1845 [F.] Auricular Confession and Popish Nunneries; London, 1846, 12mo [F.]; 5th ed., 1851; Allibone's Catalogue. Works republished in Hartford, by Silas Andrus & Son, n. d., but during the Know-Nothing excitement, I believe.]

1812. Sundry Documents, submitted to the Consideration of the Pewholders of St. Mary's Church, By the Trustees of that Church. Phila.: Print. by Lydia R. Bailey, No. 10, North Alley. 1812. pp. 26. 8vo. F.

[This pamphlet fixes the start of the schism, on Sept. 15, 1812. Rev. Wm. Harold, uncle to Rev. Wm. Vincent Harold, both O.S.D., was, in all probability, the principal mover in the matter.]

1820. HOGAN, REV. WILLIAM.—A Sermon on the Intercession of Saints. Delivered in the Roman Catholic Church, Albany. Lansinburgh: Print. by Tracy & Bliss. 1820. pp. 16. 8vo. F.

[On the testimony of Rev. G. D. Hogan, W. Hogan's cousin, "This sermon, which he (W. H.) gave as his own production, was given by the Rev. Justin McNamara, of Cork, with many other sermons." It ends by exhorting his hearers "to adhere to the religion of their forefathers. Be not the dupes of any enthusiast who calls himself a minister of the Gospel." Rev. W. H., on his arrival from Limerick to New York, was employed for some time in Albany, which place he left towards the close of 1819 (?) against the Bishop's wish, and received temporary jurisdiction by the Vicar Administrator of Philadelphia to minister in St. Mary's Church. Bishop Conwell arrived in the latter part of 1820, and in December 14th he withdrew Mr. Hogan's faculties, on account of dubious morality (suspicions fully justified by subsequent disclosures). Mr. H. continued to officiate . . . and on the 11th of February, 1821, he was excommunicated. These few hints will give the key to the history of the pamphlets, a list whereof I have endeavored to put together in chronological order.]

1822. Aug. 9. The Regular Trustees, lawfully elected, on the Bishop's part, give a public statement of the affair of April 9.

1822. Nov. 30. The Catholic Herald and Weekly Register was started by E. F. Crozet; it seems to advocate Hogan and St. Mary's schism. The three first numbers, and the only ones I have seen, not only continue upholding the schism, but are of a blasphemous tone in Catholic matters generally.

[The true Catholic Herald was started about ten years afterwards, and flourished for many years as a sterling Catholic paper. Mr. Spellissy, I believe, was the last editor, and buried it.]

— Dec. 17. The Brief of His Holiness, Pope Pius the Seventh, addressed to Ambrose, Abp. of Baltimore, to his Suffragan Bishops, to the Administrators of the Temporalities of the Churches, and to all the Faithful in the United States of America.

The Brief is given in both Latin and English, pp. 3-14. Then, in the copy before me, follow two pages numbered 9 and 10, stating the decision of the Pope, against W. H., to be final, and given after a careful perusal of documents on both sides, all endorsed by a Letter from Mgr. Pedicini, Secretary of Propaganda. Mr. Hogan then gives a Correspondence, pp. 11?-34, endeavoring to prove that he had submitted, but that the absence of authenticity in the Brief, and other causes, induced him to adopt another course!

— In Poulson's American Daily Advertiser and the Franklin Gazette are given summary reports of the proceedings in Court against W. H. for his continuing to celebrate in St. Mary's after having been excommunicated, May 27, 1822. When the decision of the Supreme Court was given against him, he persisted in being in the Sanctuary with the Bp. and the Clergy—6th, 13th, and 20th, 1823—Mass could not be said. The people grew tumultuous. Hence the charges against H., who employed in his behalf Messrs. Du Ponceau, C. J., and J. R. Ingersoll, whilst the Bp. was supported by Messrs. Hopkinson, Chauncey, Kittern, and Keating. The Court bound W. H. to appear before the Mayor, and advised the friends of Bp. Conwell not to worship in St. Mary's until the trial before the Mayor's Court, in March, shall be determined. The opinion of the Court, in courteous style, is given in full in the Democratic Press.

— The Democratic Free Press published, with sober remarks by B. A. M., what purports to be the genuine copy of the Excommunication pronounced against W. H., May 27, 1821. If it is genuine, Dr. Conwell did not follow the formula given in the Rom. Pontifical. In a subsequent number of the D. F. Press, B. A. M. confirms the genuineness of the copy aforesaid, on the testimony of the Bishop and the Clergy, and adds: "This form is not to be found in the Pontif. Rom. . . . It was prepared in this city, and adapted not only to the case of the Individual, but to the age and the country in which it was read." v. Dr. England, who shows the orthodoxy of the Formula.

Battle, The—of St. Mary's. A Serio-Comic Ballad, with Desultory Remarks on the Dissensions in the Church. By an Observer wholly unconnected with the Parties, but wishing well to Liberty and Peace. Pub. at 11 South Sixth Street. pp. 8. 8vo. G. W. R.

1822-23. At the latter part of '22 and during '23 the battle waxed very hot, and it received new impulse from the publication of the Pope's Rescript. The following papers were engaged: The Democratic Press, The Aurora, The National Gazette, The Gazette and Daily Advertiser, The Franklin Gazette, The Erin (with an angel's name and a devil's tongue), The American Sentinel and Mercantile Advertiser (in which "Catholicus" wrote six letters in behalf of the schism—M. Carey's?), The American Daily Advertiser, all of Philadelphia; The Shamrock, of New York, against the Hoganites and with telling force (Th. O'Connor's); The Columbian Observer, Phila.; The Advocate and Irishman's Journal; The Baltimore Federal Gazette—reporting a meeting of the Catholics at the Cathedral in Balt. condemning the schism, and conveying their resolutions through Charles Carroll of Carrollton, which resolutions were replied to with insult by the Hoganites. The Columbian Observer gives Peter S. Duponceau's opinion, based on a wrong interpretation of the jus patronatus. At this time the case was laid before the Grand Jury of Philadelphia, and from thence was carried to the Senate, where an amendment was passed in opposition to the laws of the Catholic Church, vetoed by Gov. Hiester (Mch. 27, 1823), reconsidered in the Senate, and lost.

1823. July and Aug. Letters, etc.—viz.: from Bishop England, on Captain Rock's Proclamation; from the Rev. W. Hogan, In Reply to the Rev. Bishop; from an Irishman to the Rev. W. Hogan; and from An Irish Catholic to an Irishman: copied from the Charleston Mercury, the Columbian Observer, and the Democratic Press. Print. and pub.

at No. 11, S. Sixth Street, Phila. 1823. pp. 28. 8vo.

— Aug. 30. The following appeared in the Philadelphia Democratic Press: "In consequence of a communication which appeared in the Democratic Press, the Congregation of St. Mary's Church are hereby duly notified that the Rev. Wm. Hogan continues as sole Pastor of said Church. The correspondence upon the subject of a conditional resignation tendered by the Rev. Mr. Hogan will be laid before the public in a few days. By order of the board of Trustees. (Signed) Archibald Randall. Sec'y."

The subject alluded to is explained by a note of the Chairman of the Trustees, Aug. 28, in which it is stated Rev. Mr. Hogan's "resignation has been admitted by Us [sic], and we have this day nominated the Rev. A. Inglesi, and requested him to officiate at said Church"!!! But then Mr. Inglesi declined, and Mr. Hogan reinstated by Us, Aug. 29.

— Ap. 6. At a meeting of the Trustees a communication (d. Charleston, S. C., Mch. 28) was received from Rev. W. H. tendering his resignation . . . Resolved, The Sec'y will inform Mr. H. that his resignation is formally accepted, but was considered unnecessary by the Trustees, who conceived his abandonment of the Church in Nov'r last as a virtual resignation, etc.

Several communications, dated from Charleston, S. C., during this year, and published in the Phila. U. S. Gazette, openly aim at planting an American Cath. Church, independent of Rome, Episcopal authority, law of celibacy, etc., written by W. Hogan.

— June 26. The Trustees of St. Mary's Church publish a card protesting against Rev. W. Hogan's purpose of preaching to that congregation; to which W. H. replies with a letter, June 28, and concludes: "I value your menaces as little as I do your opinions on polemical subjects," etc. Which protest is followed by letters in the public papers, replete with criminations and recriminations between W. H. and the Trustees.

— July. Rev. W. Hogan was one of the Judges (!) in the public Dispute between Rev. Messrs. W. L. McCalla and Abner Kneeland, Prot. Ministers, on the Following Question: Is the punishment of the Wicked absolutely Eternal? or is it only a Temporal Punishment in this World for their Good, and to be succeeded by Eternal Happiness after Death? A substance of this Discussion was Printed and Published for the Author, by T. S. Manning, 11 South Sixth Street, Philadelphia. 1824. pp. 40. 8vo. [In the B. B. collection.]

— July 22. William Hogan publishes an address to the Congregation of St. Mary's Church on the subject of a new-fangled The American Catholic Church, which called forth severe and sarcastic rebuffs from even the Hoganites, who twit Hogan even on the stability of his amours. Yet he met with some encouragement, although only on paper.

Historical Note.—NORAH.—“Crazy Norah” died in Phila. Feb'y, 1865. “She sported either an immense stove-pipe [the same week died Geo. Munday, who never wore a hat], or, in summer, a broad-rimmed straw hat, which, together with a long woollen cloak, and the inevitable accompaniment of a couple of huge carpet-bags stowed full of novels and bills for collection, set off her gaunt, raw-boned figure rather conspicuously. . . . She was the daughter of Mr. Gower, a respectable farmer, Co. Limerick, Ireland. After his death she came to this country. . . . She espoused Mr. Hogan's cause, but when she saw the officers of the law, who had been called upon to quell the riot, trampling on the sanctuary, her reason gave way, and from that time she wandered in the streets . . . an especial favorite with children. . . . Her ostensible business was that of collector. . . . She would present her bill, and, on payment being refused, would take up her station, opposite the debtor's house, surrounded by a crowd of children. . . . Shame would soon bring the debtor to terms, and Norah would hand over to the principal the amount, minus her commission. . . .

The Litany of the Saints was her favorite prayer. She frequently repeated it over insolvent debtors . . . enumerated among the celestial inhabitants her grandmother. Up to a few days of her death, . . . a regular attendant at St. John's . . . She was buried from her sister's house : a hearse and a solitary carriage composing the funeral cortege." Phila. Corr. Cinc. Cath. Tel., Mch. 8, 1865.

[Object not to my reckoning Col. H. among Catholics, for I know not the precise circumstances of his death, and because his wife and son, Major E. Howard, were Catholics. I have performed the sad office of closing the eyes of the former and consigned the remains of both to rest, in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline, Mass. Col. H. was the oldest son of Col. J. E. Howard, one of the heroes of the Revolution; two medals were decreed to him by the U. S. Senate. They descended from the Catholic family of the Earls of Arundel. Mrs. Col. H., Jr., became a convert with her brother, W. G. Read, under the guidance of Dr. England, S.C. For these items I am indebted to the courtesy of W. G. Read, Esq., of Baltimore, Md.]

[The text is from the Vulgate. Here is a Bible adopted as a text-book in our schools in the U. S. in 1814. Oh! how the Papists are opposed to the Bible! Rev. James Ward, S.J., of Frederick, Md., has (March 1, 1871) kindly placed at my disposal the following items: "There ought to be an obituary in the papers between '26 and '29, for I remember I was sent by my uncle (?) to G. T. C. somewhere about that time to give, in his name, to the Rev. F. Smith the Book of Common Prayer that had belonged to Mr. Ironside. All I know of him is that he was a Protestant minister in New York, and when he was converted that he came to Washington City, where my uncle's family visited him, and that he died in Washington. . . . We G. T. C. boys knew him as the editor of the Gloucester Greek Grammar, called by us 'Ironside's.'" Sister M. de Chantal, of the V. B. M. (sister to the ever lamented J. Cummings, D.D.), informs me that Mr. Ironside was born in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and served as a chaplain in the British Navy. He was a distinguished Episcopal minister, and officiated in St. George's Church, New York, in 1815; became a Catholic in 1817, and was forsaken by all his former admirers. He removed with his family to Washington, where he was much esteemed, and President Adams appointed him to the office of translator in the State Department, an important office which he occupied for many years." Among the remains lately transferred from St. Patrick's old burying-ground to a new Catholic cemetery in Washington those of Mr. Ironside are mentioned. *v. Balt. Cath. [Fr. I. born April 11, 1714, in Segovia, Spain; died Dec. 20, 1783, in Bologna, Italy. He was a hard student, finished scholar, and great preacher. He was author of Fray Gerundio, a satire on the foolish way of preaching then in vogue, translated into English by Barrett (and I think there is an American edition previous to 1820), and into other European tongues. Gil Blas de Saltillana buelto a su patria, finished in Bologna, 1781, appeared at Madrid only in 1805. In consequence of the writer's assumptions in his Preface, Gil Blas was ascribed to Le Sage. P. François de Neufchateau has demolished this opinion, 1820; but W. Scott attributes the work to Le Sage. v. Précis de la querelle a half-sheet Map of the Country. With notes from the Spanish and French versions, and an Appendix containing copious extracts from the Araucana of Don Alonzo de Ercilla. Translated from the original Italian by an American gentleman. Middletown (Conn.): Printed for S. Riley. 1808.

F.

2 vols. 8vo. I., xii. and 271; II., viii. and 306. (2d vol. contains "An Appendix to the Civil and Political History of Chili, consisting of a Sketch of the Araucana of Don Alonzo de Ercilla, with copious Translations from that Poem, by William Hayley, Esq., and the Rev. H. Boyd. New York: Published by Alsop, Brannan & Alsop, City Hotel, Broadway. 1808. Verso: Printed by Richard Alsop, Middletown, Connecticut." Pp. iv-69.)

[Padre Molina was a very learned Jesuit of the Province of Chili, South America, whence he was ostracised with all his brethren, in 1765, by the Bourbon Charles III. After much suffering and many trials, he at last found rest in Bologna, Italy, where with several other members of the Company he devoted himself to study and scientific pursuits. He died very poor, Sept. 13, 1829, and was buried in a pauper's grave, at the Certosa. Some years after the Municipality of Bologna caused his bust to be placed in the Pantheon, among the illustrious men of Bologna. But no inscription records his merits. The book whereof the title is given above seems to be a translation of an original work published in 1782, a second edition of the first part of which Molina printed in large quarto, Bologna: Masi e comp. 1810 (F.) pp. v. and 307, with a new map, and dedicated to "Eugenio Napoleone figlio di Napoleone Augusto."

It has also a beautiful portrait of the author by the celebrated engraver J. Rosaspina, taken in 1805. In 1776 Molina had already published a Compendio della Storia Geografica Naturale e Civile del Regno del Chile. Bologna: MDCCLXXVI. Stamperia di S. Tommaso d'Aquino. Pp. viii. and 246, with a map and ten illustrations (F.) A 2d ed. of this work, pub. in 1787, is mentioned at p. 272 of the 4to map ed. Molina's history was translated into French by Gravel, in 1792, also into German and Spanish. It is quoted by Gmelin in his enlarged ed. of Systema Naturæ.]

[4] In the Life of Abp. Hughes (by Hassard. N. Y. 1866) we read (p. 394): "My dear Mr. Frenaye: Feb. 13, '57. I received your letter of the 2d inst., announcing the death of my old and honored friend, Dr. Nancrede Had I known of his illness, I certainly should have had the melancholy satisfaction of seeing him once again before his death. . . . With all his peculiarities, he clung nobly to the faith of his fathers from childhood to old age, and this amidst many temptations to abandon it. During the period of our difficulties in the erection of St. John's Church, the doctor stood by us with great constancy and great fidelity.—✠ John, Abp. N. Y." Was the Dr. any relation to the J. Nancrede of Harvard? In reply to an enquiry of mine, Dr. Bayley, Bp. of Newark, writes: "Dr. Nancrede, alluded to in the Life of Abp. Hughes, was quite a distinguished physician in Phila., and was received into the Church [? v. supra], I believe, by the Abp. himself, when P. P. of St. John's Church, Phila. Dr. Nancrede used to visit Bp. Hughes, when I was his Sec'y in New York, and I remember him very well. He was a fervent Catholic. . . . O'CONNOR, THOMAS.

I hope I shall not be charged with impropriety because I transcribe in full the following :

"NEW YORK, Feb. 25th, 1867.

"DEAR SIR :

"My father emigrated in 1801, and died in this city in 1855, at the age of 85. I think he never aspired to the character of an author. He first resorted to his pen as a means of earning a scanty subsistence for his family. This must have been about the year 1811. He was connected with the press at intervals thenceforward until he had reached a very advanced age.

"War was declared against Great Britain June 18th, 1812. Samuel Woodworth, a printer, but subsequently well known as a poet, novelist, and Swedenborgian preacher, at once commenced a [quarto] weekly newspaper called The War. My father was its editor for two or three months. His connection with that paper then ceased ; and, in conjunction with Stephen Wall, a countryman of his, he edited for a couple of years, beginning about Sept., 1812, a weekly paper called The Military Monitor. Subsequently he edited for two or three years, commencing in 1815, a weekly called The Shamrock. In January, 1819, he commenced the publication of a monthly magazine called The Globe. Its proprietors avowed no particular views ; but its contents indicate that it was The Shamrock in a new form. Ireland and Catholicity were its leading topics. It lasted about a year. In 1815 he wrote for one John Low, a publisher, a single volume entitled a 'History of the War.' It had a good circulation. . . .

“The book of which you particularly enquire must have been issued in numbers to subscribers. Its title page is ‘The Inquisition Examined by an Impartial Reviewer. Religionis non est Religionem cogere. New York: Printed by J. Desnoues, 23 Provost-Street. 1825.’ I have a single bound copy. In May, 1824, I was admitted to the bar; and from that time my father had no business connection with the press, nor any resort to literature except to gratify some emotion of his heart. I presume he wrote the ‘Inquisition Examined’ gratuitously, at the request of Mr. Desnoues, who was an old friend.

“He was brought up by his grandfather, ‘the Irish antiquarian.’ . . . He was a devoted Catholic, an enthusiastically patriotic Irishman, and, as a necessary consequence, was averse to the government of Britain, and deeply attached to the republican institutions of his adopted country. These characteristics exhibit themselves in all his literary efforts. Whether employed in procuring bread for his family or in the freely chosen pursuits of easy leisure, his pen was always under the influence of these sentiments. It was ever directed in vindicating the fame of Ireland, the honor of our United American States, or the truth and purity of his cherished Mother the Apostolic Church. . . .

“I am, dear sir, yours truly,

To my esteemed friend, Michael Hennessy, Esq., of New York, I am indebted for the following additional items: “I had, at one time, in my possession, copies of both The War and The Military Monitor. The War was established at the sole suggestion of O’Connor, who edited it up to the 10th number. With a Mr. Wall, who ‘had been induced by him . . . to associate his talents and military knowledge with him,’ The Military Monitor was started by him. The new paper had a sub-title more like a table of contents than anything else. It was first printed and published for the proprietor by Joseph Desnoues, No. 6, Church St., rear of St. Paul's church-yard, commencing with Monday, Aug. 17, 1812, and weekly thereafter. It was in small 4to form. 3 cols. to a page. For a few Nos. of the 1st vol. Hardcastle & Van Pelt, No. 63, Pine-Street, printed the paper, but by No. 9, it was back again in the hands of Joseph Desnoues, as printer, then temporarily at No. 61 Church-Street, near Murray. By Febr'y 8, 1813, Desnoues returned permanently to No. 6 Church St., where he had bought a printing office. By No. 33, April 12, 1813, O'Connor's name disappeared from its columns. Wall had retired soon after the paper was started or before the date of 1812.

"O'Connor published in the Monitor, under date of May, 1813, a prospectus of a 'History of the Revolutionary War in America,' which he contemplated relating in a 12mo of some 300 pp., to be sold at a dollar a copy. I know not whether it was ever given to the public. Relative to O'Connor's 'History of the War' of 1812-15, . . . within the last ten years I have seen at least four copies of it. One of them is in my own collection. It is a 12mo, of some 336 pp., 'fourth edition, revised and improved.' It is introduced by a wretched copper-plate 'likeness' of Maj.-Gen. Andrew Jackson, and an unusually elaborate title, beginning with 'An Impartial and Correct History of the War between the United States and Great Britain.' My copy has this imprint: 'New York: Printed and Published by John Low, No. 62 Vesey-Str. 1817.' [Infra.] The narrative affords a very satisfactory outline sketch of the history of the war, and it is authentic. The Irish-American element is not treated with indifference. Many interesting documents are supplied. . . . A fair portrait of Decatur faces p. 63, and 'middling' of Perry p. 117. An index is also supplied."

THE O'CONNOR FAMILY.

Memoir of Gabriel Beranger and his Labours in the cause of Irish Art, Literature, and Antiquities, from 1760 to 1780. By Sir W. R. Wilde, M.D., Vice-President of the Royal Irish Academy.

In the Journal of the Royal Historical and Archæological Association of Ireland—(Vol. I., Part I., 4th Series. 1870)—I find the following notice of the ancestors of one of New York's distinguished citizens, which I have never seen in print before. It is from a series of articles, under the title quoted, of much interest, communicated to the Association by the above-named gentleman. J. C.

“Went on, and arrived at Belinagar, the residence of Charles O’Conor, Esq. (descendant of the ancient Kings of Connaught, and well known in the literary world by his publications concerning Ireland).”—Beranger.

Next day, August 3, having first worked at their Sketches, they set out on horseback with Mr. O’Conor and his son Denis.

At the time of Beranger’s visit, the Belinagar family had not adopted the title of Don, which was then used by the Clonalis branch at the male head of the line.

Owen O’Conor, the eldest grandson of Charles, was the first of the Belinagar branch who assumed the title of Don, or Dun, on the death without issue of Alexander O’Conor, the last male of the Castlerea branch. Owen was a most courteous, refined gentleman, and immediately after the passing of the Relief Bill was elected M. P. for Roscommon—an honor which has since descended to his son Denis J. O’Conor Don, and is now worn by Charles, his grandson, the present esteemed O’Conor Don, of Clonalis. The first named, Denis, had two other sons. Matthew, the second son, with whom I had the honor of an intimate acquaintance, and who resided at Mont-Druid, was a distinguished lawyer, a man of great erudition, of refined tastes, and an accomplished writer. The third son, Charles, was the well-known author of the Rerum Hibernicarum Scriptores.

Having been born in the locality, I am perhaps the last writer who retains a personal recollection of three of the following lineal descendants of Cathal Crove-Dearg, one of the last Kings of Connaught.

Daniel, one of the direct descendants of Sir Hugh of Ballin-tubber, was The O'Connor Dun. . . . He lived in great state at Clonalis, near Castlereagh, and died in 1769. He had three sons, Dominick, Alexander, and Thomas, and two daughters, Jane and Elizabeth. The former married Mr. William Eccles, a solicitor and a Protestant, and was never afterwards seen by her father; my aunt, who died several years ago at a very advanced age, remembered having seen her coming in to "cry" her brother Dominick, when he was "laid out" in the barn at Clonalis. . . . In the old house I remember seeing a beautiful Spanish picture of the Madonna; a large gold snuff-box, representing on the lid the landing of Columbus in America, said to have been given by the King of Spain to one of the O'Connor family; and the silver and jewelled hilted sword of Count O'Reilly.

The second brother, Alexander O'Connor, had been many years in Spain, but at the time of his brother Thomas's death was living at a place called Creglahan, near Castlereagh. Although past seventy, he was usually called "Master Sandy," but was always recognized by the people as the true "King of Connaught." I knew him well, as he afterwards resided with a relative of mine. He died at a great age, and is buried beside my ancestors, the O'Flyns, in the old churchyard of Kilkeeven, on the banks of the Suck, near Castlereagh.

The Rev. Dr. Charles O'Connor (Columbanus), the celebrated antiquary, was parish priest of Kilkeeven, where I was born, and while there, it is said, collected all the Irish MSS. that could be procured in the neighborhood, as well as those belonging to his relatives whom I have already mentioned, and which he subsequently carried off to Stowe, when he became librarian to the Duke of Buckingham.

Besides Denis, Charles—the friend of Beranger in 1777—had another son, Charles, of Mount Allen, grandfather of the present Charles O'Connor, of New York.

I, of course, submitted the foregoing to the Hon. Charles O'Connor, who most courteously replied as follows:

"New York, April 10th, 1872.

"REVEREND DEAR SIR—I am very much rejoiced to learn that your work is in course of publication. . . . I feel assured that the general interests of religion will be greatly promoted by it. It is not in vain that God endows the worker in such a field with learning, talents, untiring industry, and ardent zeal.

"A minor consideration, but I hope not an unbecoming one, increases my pleasure at the event. You have spoken, kindly I am sure, of my beloved, venerated, and sainted father.

"I return the memoranda concerning certain members of my family in Ireland. It is entirely correct, I believe. I have made very slight additions: they are not corrections of any error, but simply elucidations. The propriety of publishing any such private matters must be judged of by others. Charles, of Mount Allen, with whom that narrative ends, emigrated with his whole family.

"With great esteem, I remain,

"Rev. Dear Sir,

"Yours faithfully,

"CH. O'CONNOR.

He was not fit for the position, for he had already been suspended by the Archbishop of Paris. Shortly after his appointment to Boston he issued

A Pastoral Letter from the Apostolic Vice-Prefect, Curate of the Holy Cross at Boston :

Claudius Florent Bouchard de la Poterie, Doctor of Divinity, Prothonotary of the Holy Church of the Holy See of Rome, Apostolic Vice-Prefect and Missionary, Curate of the Catholic Church at Boston in North America, to all faithful Christians entrusted to our care, and of our spiritual jurisdiction, salvation and blessing in Jesus Christ, the Shepherd of our Souls.

But letters from Paris tore the sheep's skin from the wolf's back, and Poterie's ministrations came to a sorry and quick end, on the 29th of May, 1789, when he was suspended by Rev. W. O'Brien, of New York, sent by Dr. Carroll to examine into the charges preferred against him. John Gilmary Shea supplies me with the following title of a work apparently by the same La Poterie: (v. pp. v-vi.)

"The Resurrection of Laurent Ricci; or, A True and Exact History of the Jesuits. Printed in Philadelphia: 1789. Price half a dollar, 8vo, 28 pp. Dedicated "To the new Laurent Ricci in America, the Rev. Fr. John Carroll, Superior of the Jesuits (Footing) in the United States, also to the friar-monk-inquisitor, William O'Brien."

RICHARD, REV. GABRIEL.—“The welfare of his flock inspired him with the idea of establishing a printing-press in Detroit, and publishing a newspaper. This project he undertook in 1809, and for a time he issued a periodical in French, entitled Essai du Michigan; but the great distances which separated the people of the territory, and the irregularity of the mails, led to the discontinuance of his journal. His press, however, which was the first introduced into the Northwestern part of the U.  Grasp at their fate, and build themselves a tomb.

ROLLIN, CHARLES.

[In a deeply interesting paper in The New Hampshire Gazette, the oldest newspaper in America, communicated by Frank W. Miller, Esq., of Portsmouth, N. H., to the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register, etc., Boston, 1872, vol. xxvi., No. 2, we are told that "the history of printing in Portsmouth is mainly the record of newspapers and editors; although considerable book-work was done at one time, about the close of the last century, including a heavy edition of Rollin's 'Ancient History,' etc." The Press made its appearance in Portsmouth, A.D. 1756. Charles Rollin was a Catholic, and a man of unimpeachable character, but unfortunately a partisan of Paris, and it is feared did not recant at his death, although it is generally admitted that his error was only of the mind and never violated the laws of charity or reverence to ecclesiastical authority, even in defence of Jansenistical principles. v. Chateaubriand, Genie du Christianisme, L. iii. ch. 7. R. b. in Paris, Jan. 30, 1661; d. there, Sept. 14, 1741, being held in very high esteem. Cfr. De Feller ad n.]

Should I at any time receive more definite information . . . I shall take great pleasure in sharing it with you.

His object, as I have been told, and as in fact appears from the preface, was to weaken the effect of her Conversion to the Catholic Faith, by endeavoring to show that she was a perfect Christian before that event took place. . . . Aunt Seton and the family were very much displeas'd at this publication, and the minister, whose name I do not remember, was much censur'd for having made it from a MS. copy which had been lent to him, and without the knowledge and consent of Mother Seton."—N. [In the pref. to the Monitor Mr. T. promises a N. Y. edition of the Douay Bible, but it was not published, as far as I know. Mr. Taylor afterwards removed to Boston in the spring of 1821. He was a very eloquent man and a good controversialist, as I judge from his correspondence with the Hon. H. B. C. Green, M.D. (whom he baptized Nov., 1824), a copy of which I possess through the kindness of Mrs. Dr. Leprohon (Dr. Green's daughter), of Portland, Me. Bp. Cheverus is said to have entertained the project of nominating Mr. T. for his coadjutor. From an autograph letter of Dr. Cheverus before me, dated Montauban, April 10, 1826, I clip the following: "You know that our friend Mr. Taylor did not bring your esteemed favor of December 9th, but he forwarded it. . . . I wish myself that our dear Mr. Taylor would have remained some time with him (Bp. Fenwick). . . . By Mr. Taylor's letters I expect him soon. I shall do my best to make him comfortable and happy, but here his preaching will lose much of its charms. I have explained to him what he may expect, so that he may be enabled to determine what is best for him. As for me I shall be happy to welcome him, and his constant attentions to yourself and family since my departure have endeared him more and more to me. . . . To Mr. Wally, Brookline."—When Bishop Cheverus left Boston, September, 1825, Mr. Taylor remained Administrator of the Diocese until the Sunday after December 3, 1825, when Bishop Fenwick arrived and took possession, on which occasion Mr. T. delivered a very interesting sermon, giving an account of the state of the diocese, but at its conclusion he announced that he would sail for Europe. The following Sunday Rev. Mr. Taylor left Boston for New York, where he sojourned for a while, but finally sailed for France, and, fixing himself at Bordeaux, was made honorary canon by his friend Archbp. Cheverus. When the Archbishop, who had been raised to the peerage, went to Paris, Rev. Mr. Taylor accompanied him. He was there taken sick and died in the Irish College, in August, 1828. Mr. Taylor's name appears among the subscribers to M. Carey's Essays, 1822.—*Cfr. History of the Cath. Church in the U. THAYER, REV. JOHN—Controversy between the Rev. John Thayer, Catholic Missionary of Boston, and the Rev. George Leslie, Pastor of a Church in Washington, N. H. Boston. 1793. pp. iv.—167.

8vo. F.

[To a public invitation, rather a challenge to debate, given by Mr. Thayer, on his return from Europe (Nov. 24, 1790), where he had become a Catholic, the following acceptance was returned: "As the gauntlet is thrown down by Mr. Thayer, it is taken up by George Leslie." The controversy between Mr. Th. and Mr. L. began in a public paper, Oct. 5, 1793; in this copy it ends at p. 74. Then follow some desultory pieces, rather small Tracts by Mr. Thayer, with Rejoinders by others, i.e., A Sincere and Unbiassed Reader of the Holy Bible—A Searcher after Truth—Simplex—Answer—Barbones—etc., etc., etc., whom Father Thayer keeps all at bay like a noble stag attacked by hounds. One John Gardner, a celebrated lawyer and a great speaker in the House of Representatives, enters the lists repeatedly, but at p. 115 we find the following: "Mr. Gardner disbelieves all miracles. But is there not something miraculous in his being struck with the palsy, in his right hand, at the very time he was writing all his blasphemies against God and his saints? (This is a positive fact.) If he will believe, perhaps he may be made whole." The remaining pieces, partly Catholic and partly Protestant, are most interesting. Mr. Thayer d. in Limerick, Feb. 5, 1815, in the arms of Mr. Ryan, whose two daughters afterward came to Boston to found an Ursuline convent. They opened a school near the Cathedral in Franklin St. From The Family Memorial. Hingham: J. Farmer, Printer. 1835, Part II. (the only vol. As mentioned, this is a transl. from the French translation.

The only other American edition I have seen is that pub. by Rev. Jas. Fitton :

“An Account of the Conversion of Rev. J. Thayer, formerly a Protestant Minister of Boston. Written by himself. To which is added, A Letter to his Brother, and his controversial writings. By the editors of the U. S. Catholic Press, Hartford, Conn. MDCCLXXXII. pp. 38, 12mo. F.

In this ed. no Controversial Writings. But the Letters (there are two) should both bear the date London, August 24, 1787, as in the Balt. ed. In the Spanish ed., the 2d Letter is dated “Paris, 1 de Mayo de 1787. En el Seminario de S. Sulpicio.” Whilst tarrying in Paris, before his way back to the U. S., Mr. T. issued an appeal, in the French language (coincidence of the Times !) to secure prayers for the conversion of America. The hon. Fr. Spencer took the hint from him, many years after, and both learned the practice from Holy Writ. The prayer for the Knowledge of the True Faith ascribed in the Golden Manual, p. 764, to Mr. Thayer, was copied by him from a Spanish Book.]

[Title of a Dublin edition of the Controversy: “The Catholic Controversy, maintained in the Periodical Publications of Boston, New Salem, and other Towns of the U. S. of America, against the calumnious objections and false imputations of the Rev. George Leslie, Pastor of a church in Warrington (sic), N. H.; J. Gardner, Esq., Barrister, and other writers, under the fictitious appellations of A Searcher after Truth, Simplex, etc., etc. To which are added a full Refutation of the Charges adduced against Catholicity, by Mr. Belknap in his History of New Hampshire, with an Answer to Dr. Lathrop’s Lecture on the Errors of Popery. And a Letter from Mons. Allegre, son of a French Protestant Clergyman, to the Author, with an Account of his Conversion, translated by a Scotch Lady, a Convert to the Catholic Communion; also, A Letter from a Young Gentleman in France to his Friends in America, respecting his conversion, effected by an Irish gentleman, who lately abjured the errors of Protestantism, and a specimen of Bostonian toleration at a Catholic convert’s interment. By the Rev. John Thayer, formerly a Puritan Minister, of Boston, and afterwards converted to the Holy Catholic Religion, at Rome, in 1783. Printed by R. Coyne, Capel-street, Dublin, 1809. pp. 121. 8vo. F.

“To the Irish ed. of this work Mr. Gideon Ouseley replied in 1812, in a pamphlet of 40 or 50 pages, reissued in 1813 as ‘The Inquiries of Mr. Ouseley, Irish Missionary, addressed to Rev. John Thayer, Rom. Cath. Missionary, in consequence of his public challenge in his Cath. Controv'y to all Protestants, Ministers especially,' p. 140.

"To this an answer in '18 or '20 pp. appeared, signed 'Layman.' Ouseley published a 3d ed. in 1814, a 4th in '21, and a 5th some years after; all enlarged. The latter was reprinted in the United States under the following title 'Old Christianity against Papal Novelties; including a Review of Dr. Milner's "End of Controversy." By Gideon Ouseley. . . . "And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down and shall be found no more at all," Rev. xviii. 21. No falsehood can endure—Touch of celestial temper, but returns—Of force to its own likeness. Milton. Fifth Am. from the fifth Dublin edition.—A cut of the Bible.—Philadelphia: Sorin & Ball, 42 North 4th Str. Stereotyped by L. Johnson. 1847.'"

The French edition appeared evidently in 1788. Mr. Nagot reprints it in 1791 in a Recueil de Conversions Remarquables, nouvellement operees dans quelques Protestants. 12mo, Paris: Crapart, 1791. pp. 532; in which it occupies pp. 1-188. In the preface (p. iv.) Mr. Nagot says: "La Relation de la Conversion de M. Thayer est connue depuis trois ans. On l'a jugée si edificante qu'elle a été imprimée en anglais, en français, en italien et en espagnol. In the Tableau General des Principales Conversions, 12mo, Paris, 1827, Mr. Thayer's account is given without the other papers, pp. 68-103. Allibone never heard of Thayer.

I am indebted to Dr. J. G. Shea for some of the above items. G. W. Richards, of Phila., had a nicely-preserved copy of the Dublin edition.

In 1797, J. Boyce, b. Inn's-quay, London, published a Fourth Edition of "An Account of the Conversion of the Rev. Mr. John Thayer, lately a Protestant Minister at Boston in North America, who embraced the Roman Catholic Religion at Rome, on the 25th May, 1783. Written by Himself." To which are annexed Several Extracts from a Letter written to his brother in answer to some objections. Also a Letter from a Young Lady lately received by him into the Church, written after making her first communion. Misericordias Domini in aeternum cantabo—"I will sing the mercies of the Lord for ever." Ps. lxxxix. 1. pp. 53. 12mo. Abp. B.

After I had finished this chapter on Thayer, I received the following from the very kind librarian of Georgetown College: "Controversy between the Rev. John Thayer, Catholic Missionary of Boston, and the Rev. George Leslie, Pastor of a Church in Washington, N. H. Georgetown ('Potomack'): Printed by Alex. Doyle. 1791:

"In the end of the book in which this pamphlet is bound up is a MS. account of the conversion of Adam Livingston, of Jefferson Co., Va., and some description of the events at Wizard's Clip, his place of residence."—A collection of documents relating to these extraordinary occurrences, which took place about the beginning of this century, has been prepared for the Boston Pilot Press by the writer, and will be published during the winter.

WALLACE, REV. JAMES.—A new treatise on the use of the Globes and practical Astronomy; or, a comprehensive view of the System of the World. In four parts. 1. An extensive collection of Astronomical and other definitions. 2. Problems performed by the Terrestrial Globe, including those relative to Geography, Navigation, Dialling, &c., with many new and important problems and investigations, particularly useful to the Navigator and practical Astronomer. 3. Problems performed by the Celestial Globe, including those of finding the longitude at sea, new methods of finding the latitude with only one altitude of the Sun, or a star, at any given time, with the method of representing the spherical triangles on the globe, &c. 4. A comprehensive account of the Solar System, with the elementary principles and most valuable modern discoveries in Astronomy to the present time. The nature and motion of comets, of the fixed stars, eclipses, the theory of the tides, laws of motion, gravity, &c., with diagrams elucidating the demonstrations. The whole serving as an introduction to the higher Astronomy and Natural Philosophy, is illustrated with a variety of important notes, useful remarks, &c., and each problem with several examples. The necessary astronomical instruments are pointed out and the most useful tables are inserted in the work. Designed for the instruction of youth, and particularly adapted to the U. S. By J. According to the information I have received from Salem (where his son John, a lawyer, kept a highly-esteemed private school, but left it in 1824, and removed to the West, where he died about 1835 or '36), he is thought to have been an Irishman and a Catholic. WHITE, CALVIN.

[I am indebted to the courtesy of Richard Grant White, the distinguished writer, for the following only too brief notice :

“DEAR SIR: . . . Calvin White was my grandfather. He became a Roman Catholic ; but although he was an accomplished scholar, and a writer of clearness and force, he published no books that I heard of : nothing more than sermons, if that, and certainly nothing after he left the Prot. Episcopal Church, which, if I remember rightly what I have been told, was about 1818. I saw in my college days a manuscript of his, in which he set forth the steps by which he went from the Church of England to that of Rome ; and it seems to me that, granting his premises, his conclusions could not be denied. This book is unfortunately lost. You will find something about him in Sabine's “Loyalists of the Revolution” ; for, although a mere boy then, he was a stout Tory. His was a perfectly pure, honest, and kindly heart. He had both dignity and humor, and was the courtliest gentleman I ever saw, although he was only the parson of a country parish, and had but a small farm besides his little salary. . . .

“ I am, Rev'd Sir, yours very respectfully,

“ RICH'D GRANT WHITE.”

I have given this letter to settle the question as to Rev. Mr. White's claim to be reckoned among Catholic writers previous to 1820, as some of my respected correspondents have insisted upon. It is unfortunate indeed that his manuscript should have been lost.]

VIEL, REV. ETIENNE BERNARD ALEXANDRE—S. J.

“Born in New Orleans, Oct. 31, 1736, d. in the College of Juilly, in France, Dec. 16, 1821. He resided many years in Atapacas. He translated Fénelon’s Telemachus in Latin verse, and in 1816 he published the Miscellanea Latino-Gallica, also a French translation of the Ars Poetica of Horace, and two of his Epistles.” Gayarre’s Hist’y of Louisiana, Spanish Domination, p. 626, Feller, Biographie Univ. (Ed. 1844).

C.

FAGAN.—Since part of the work was in the printer’s hand, I have become indebted to Mr. G. R. Fagan, of J. Fagan & Son, Stereotype Founders, Philadelphia, for the following items: “My father’s grandfather, a Catholic, was Capt. John Walsh, of Dublin, who came to Philadelphia about 1750, and settled here. He commanded one of the ships of the Hon. Thomas Fitzsimmons, a Catholic of this city, who afterwards became a member of the U. S. House of Representatives. During the revolution Capt. Walsh commanded a Letter of Marque sailing from this port, called ‘The Black Prince,’ and made a number of captures of British merchantmen. His only daughter married John Fagan (my father’s father). He was the builder of the old church of St. Augustine, in this city, destroyed by a mob in 1844.”

To this valuable information, I am happy to add some interesting items more closely connected with the name of Augustine Fagan, furnished me by Mr. John Fagan, senior partner of the firm above alluded to: “. . . Nearly 60 years ago I went as a store-boy to attend in the book-store of Augustine Fagan, 133 South Front Street, in this city. I was no relative. . . . I was with him four years, partly in his store, and some time setting up type in his composing-room above. I remember well the Catholic books you have specified, also The Key to Paradise, and Milner's End to Controversy . . . After continuing in Front Street, up to 1817, Mr. Fagan gave up the printing business and turned grocer. I left him . . . I think he died in 1823 or '24. He was a Catholic, and a prominent Trustee in St. Mary's Church at the time of the Harold [Hogan] controversy. . . . Fagan and his co-trustees sided with the rebelling clergyman, and he it was who wrote their circular and pamphlets [not all], for he was a man of literary ability. I suppose he came young from Ireland, perhaps in 1803 or '4, for I think he learned the business here.

"I merely remember that two or three of those books were issued by Mr. Dougherty. . . . I cannot recall whether he had a store or not, and suppose he did nothing further in that way. . . . When I finished my printing education, it may interest you to know that I became compositor, proof-reader, and, finally, proprietor of the Stereotype Foundry, established here by J. Howe in 1823. . . ."

The above is a pretty interesting record by a gentleman writing in 1871, Sept. 26, and was an apprentice boy sixty years ago, one who says, "I retired from business eight years ago, relinquishing it to my son Geo. R. Fagan." Oh! for the old gentlemen of the olden style!

D.

WHITE, ANDREW, of the Society of Jesus, came to America with Leonard Calvert, second son of Lord George Baltimore, and wrote a Relatio Itineris sub finem Aprilis, 1634, the original is in the Archives of the Domus Professa in Rome. It has been published in Force's Tracts. Also in "A Relation of the Colony of the Lord Baron of Baltimore, in Maryland, near Virginia; a Narrative of the First Voyage to Maryland, by the Rev. Father Andrew White, and sundry reports from Rev. Fathers Andrew White, John Altham, John Brock, and other Jesuit Fathers of the colony to their Superior General at Rome. Copied from the archives of the Jesuits' College [Domus Professa] at Rome, by the late Rev. William M^cSherry, of Georgetown College, and presented by the College to the Maryland Historical Society. Translated by N. C. Brooks, A.M., Member of the Society, Baltimore. 1847." pp. 47. 8vo. F.

My copy bears corrections at the hand of Mr. Brantz Meyer. I had made arrangements to have a facsimile of the original taken in Rome: but the fear of the troubles which have since taken place forced the owners of the MS. to bury it with their archives. Part of Fr. White's Relation has been embodied in Burnap's Life of Calvert. A good Memoir of Fr. White, by Richard H. Clarke, will be found, with a note of several references, in the Baltimore Metropolitan, iv. p. 73. v. also Balt. Cath. Almanac, 1840, '41.

It was my intention to give in an appendix a List of Titles, like the above, of old writers, chiefly missionaries, whose works have either been published lately, or republished; but my list lacks yet half a score titles: Yet I thought to give Fr. White's, as a sample of a feature of the second part of the Bibliography.

is a household name in the United States as a printer, a bookseller, a poet, a writer, a publicist, an editor, a philanthropist, and a patriot. I do not purpose to give an extensive biography of him. I limit myself to a catalogue of his works as far as I have been able to ascertain their titles.

But it is high time that a society were established of such Catholics as take an interest in our Catholic history, and have an inclination for such pursuits, and a regular biographical series of American Catholic writers and men of note, clergy and laity, in a uniform style, was undertaken. The extensive Catholic library of the writer would be at their disposal, and with such men as J. G. Shea, E. B. O'Callaghan, R. H. Clarke, and others, whom I know to be eminently qualified for the purpose, although leading secluded lives in colleges and convents, a work of intense interest could be produced. And it will not only preserve the monuments of Catholic history in the United States, but it would shed much light even on the secular history. For it is a fact that no justice has yet been done to the Catholic literary, political, and religious elements in the history of our beloved country. And in connection with this, I would suggest that an "American Catholic Historical Society" should be established in some city, with a library and proper officers. Non-Catholic denominations have such institutions, and they are earnestly encouraged.

As for Mathew Carey's history, he was born in Dublin, Ireland, January 28, 1760, died in Philadelphia September 16, 1839. His last moments were attended by his intimate friend, the Very Rev. Dr. Moriarty, O.S.A., and the Rt. Rev. Dr. Garland. His father, a wealthy baker, was opposed to Mathew becoming a printer (the great mistake of parents interfering with their sons' honorable inclinations), yet he yielded, and Mathew entered a printing office at the age of fifteen. For A Letter to the Catholics in Ireland he was persecuted, and fled to Paris, where he was befriended by Dr. Franklin. He returned after one year, and conducted the Freeman's Journal. In October, 1783, with his father's aid, he started the Volunteer's Journal with great success, but by his bold writings he drew upon himself the persecution of the government, and, after enduring imprisonment and many vexations, he at last fled, in female disguise, and landed at Philadelphia November 1, 1784. In 1785, January 25, he started the Pennsylvania Herald with much success, but it involved him in a difficulty with Colonel Oswald (not Osborn, as Appleton's Cyclopadia has it). They fought a duel January 1, 1786, and became good friends. The occasion of this duel is interesting. Oswald may be considered the first Know-Nothing in America. Being shot through the thigh bone, Carey was laid up for about fourteen months.

In 1791, M. C. married Miss B. Flahavan. He was on the Committee of Health during the prevalence of the yellow fever in 1793. In the same year he founded the Hibernian Society in behalf of Irish emigrants; he took part in forming the Sunday-School Society in the United States in aid of Bishop White; he came in collision with the famous hybrid, William Cobbett, but conquered him; he promoted the Printers' Association under the presidency of the veteran Hugh Gaine, the meeting for its foundation took place in New York, the association lasted but a few years, and the trade sales afterwards took its place.

In 1806, a member of the Select Council of Philadelphia, he published a pamphlet in favor of subjecting personal property to taxation as well as real estate. From 1819 to 1833 he published no less than fifty-nine separate pamphlets on the subject of the protective tariff alone, and some passed through many editions. It is well-nigh an impossibility to give a list of all Carey has published.

Sam. Drake, Esq., has told me that a gentleman wrote to M.

C., asking for a list of the titles of his pamphlets, at the same time sending him the list he had already made. Carey answered, with a list of additional titles, remarking at the same time that in his correspondent's list there were titles of pamphlets which he had entirely forgotten! And yet he always wrote in a cogent, clear style; his mind was encyclopædic; he was endowed with a wonderful power of grasping subjects, and an extraordinary logical mind.

Mr. Joseph Reed, son of President Reed, said of him: "Mr. Carey, a man to whom we are all a great deal more indebted than we are aware of, and who is entitled to respect and regard for the generosity of his nature, the extent and variety of his knowledge, and his devoted and disinterested exertions in the public service. He has given more time, money, and labor to the public than any man I am acquainted with, and, in truth, he founded in Philadelphia a school of public spirit. This is bare justice to an excellent citizen."

He was upright, sincere, and charitable. This much for his private character: "For a long series of years he had a charity list," writes Mr. Hunt, "on which were enrolled the names of hundreds to whom he regularly gave, once each fortnight, a donation of groceries and other necessaries of life."

He was indefatigable, for with him time was not money, but merit.

At the College of Holy Cross, near Worcester, Mass., is preserved an autograph letter of George Washington to Mathew Carey. It was found in Paris by the lamented Rev. George Goodwin, and by him presented to the College. The copy which I here transcribe was kindly furnished me by the Rev. Alexis Jamison, S.J. :

“MOUNT VERNON, 15th Mar., 1785.

“SIR: I purposed so soon as I understood you intended to become the publisher of a News Paper in Philadelphia to request that a copy of your weekly production might be sent to me.—I was the more pleased with this determination when by a letter by my friend the Marquis de la Fayette. I found he has interested himself in your behalf.

“It has so happened, that my Gazettes from Philadelphia, whether from inattention at the Printing or Post offices, or other causes, come very irregularly to my hands. Let me pray you therefore to address those you send me, in the appearance of a letter.—The common paper, usually applied, will do equally well for the cover.—It has sometimes occurred to me, that there are persons who, wishing to read News Papers without being at the expense of paying for them, make free with those which are sent to others; under the garb of a letter it is not presumeable this liberty would be taken.

I am—sir,

Yr. most obedt. servt.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

MR. MATHEW CAREY, Printer of the Eveng. Herald.”

The interesting history of this splendid satire can be summed up by a few paragraphs from the preface: "Our disputes originated from some illiberal remarks written in his paper [the Gazetteer, No. 218] against new-comers. As a new-comer, I thought myself called upon to answer them, which I did in Nov. 9, 1785, under the signature of A CITIZEN OF THE WORLD." The preface plainly hints also at the probability of a personal encounter [v. supra, p. 270].

1819, March 6. Vindiciæ Hibernicæ.

Says an industrious biographer: "In 1817, the agitation of Catholic emancipation in Ireland urged Carey to the prosecution of a design which he had long had in contemplation. He was still further excited by the publication of William Godwin's novel of Mandeville (Mandeville: a Tale of the 17th Century. Edinburgh. 1817. 3 vols. 12mo), presenting in powerful [exaggerated] colors a view which Carey considered unjust of the Irish insurrection of 1641. In consequence of this he set to work to prepare an account of his native country which should expose the errors and misstatements of English historians. He made a large collection of materials, and planned his work with great deliberation, but sent his manuscript, as fast as each day's work was completed, to the printer, so that it was in type almost as soon as written. It appeared under the title of Vindiciæ Hibernicæ in 1818 (1819?), with such success that four editions were called for."

Vindiciæ Hibernicæ; or, Ireland Vindicated: An Attempt to Develop and Expose a few of the Multifarious Errors and Misrepresentations Respecting Ireland in the Histories of May, Temple, Whitelock, Borlase, Rushworth, Clarendon, Cox, Carte, Leland, Warner, Macaulay, Hume, and others, particularly in the Legendary Tales of the Pretended Conspiracy and Massacre of 1641. By M. Carey, Member of the American Philosophical Society and of the American Antiquarian Society, Author of the

[“This work may be considered as a second edition, much enlarged and improved, of the Three Letters to Mr. Garnett.”—Introd.]

In the last quoted edition we read verso of title-place the following note characteristic of the man:

“As this book has been written, and is now published, merely from public motives, no copyright is secured. Should any printer or bookseller in any part of the Union, either from the importance of the subject, the desire of doing good, or the hope of making profit, feel disposed to republish it, he has not only permission, but is invited to carry his views into operation. The writer requests, however, to be consulted, and have two weeks from this day to make corrections, should any be found necessary. March 17, 1820.”]

Hughes*, p. 329. “On the fly-leaf the Abp. wrote: I have read this pamphlet through, and whatever theory may be adopted, it seems to me that the well-known principles of human nature will be its soundest basis. Facts here quoted are far from sufficient to prove the great superiority of modern improvement in prison discipline. It seems to me that the fear of punishment is the strongest restraint on the depraved; and this barrier will be entirely broken down if prisons be changed from places of punishment to houses of correction, where the wolf and the tiger, after having preyed upon humanity, are to be wheedled out of their ferocity and soothed into kindness by the influence of an ill-timed, sickly affectation of humanity. The difference of punishment between murder and robbery has saved many a life, when otherwise the life and purse would be taken together." Ib.]

CAREY, James, "was a brother of Mathew (one t, if you please—so his descendants demand), and should have been, if he were not, a Catholic. In my notes for Mathew Carey's biography I have a mass of unpublished matter about him and his family. Another brother of M. C. was — JOHN, who edited in London the official Letters of Washington, 2 vols. 8vo, 1795—the 1st ed. ever published. He edited also many classical works for London publishers, including Ainsworth's Quarto Latin Dictionary." Laffan: M. H.

Peter Pennyless, a Fragment, by J. C., was published in the Am. Mus., viii, 207.

[About the one t my friend is mistaken. Mathew's descendants were not yet born when the great publisher spelled his name with only one t. "A Letter from G. Nicholas, of Kentucky, to his friend in Va.," etc. Lexington: Printed. Philadelphia: Reprinted, By James Carey, No. 16, Chesnut-street. 1799. F. J. Thomas does not mention him nor his brother either.]

Henry C. Carey, Esq., so well known for his works on social science, of American economists facile princeps, in a very courteous letter (Feb. 25, 1867) writes: "My uncle John was great as an editor, but not at all known as an author, and in his day the tendency here to classical republications was very small indeed [his illustrious brother did create a tendency]. . . . He has a grand-daughter in this country who is quite a remarkable woman, although known only as the author of a condensation of my large work, 'A Manual of Social Science.' My uncle William was quite an author, and of his works I have seen large volumes. . . . Of many of my father's works I have no copy. . . . My uncle John was never in this country. My uncle William was here for about a year.]

CAREY, W. Paulett, "1763-1839, brother of John and Mathew C., took part in the struggle of 1793, and, subsequently removing to England, distinguished himself as an eloquent advocate of art, artists, and political reform, and as the author of many critical contributions to the periodicals of the day. Among those in whose behalf his pen was early enlisted may be mentioned Charley, Hogan, Gibson, and James Montgomery." Allibone. Beauties of Fielding. 3s.

Beauties of Blair. 3s. 9d.

The Ladies' Library. 6s. 6d.

[The other titles are of works only printed by M. C., or such as I have given elsewhere.]

ADDENDA ET FRAGMENTA.

WHILST the work was in press, and chance there was not to alter the forms, I came across items, whereof some were titles in full, some only fragmentary hints, and again some complements of titles already given in corpore. I give them here, and I know that this little gathering of Memos will be acceptable to the Bibliophiles.

ARISPE, D. MIGUEL RAMOS DE—

In 1814 (Philadelphia ?), I am told, was published a translation of the following Spanish work on Mexico :

Memoria, que el Doctor D. [Don] Miguel Ramos de Arispe, Cura de Borbon, y Diputado en las presentes Cortes Generales y Extraordinarias de España por la provincia de Coahuila, una de las cuatro internas del Oriente en el Reyno de México, presenta a el Augusto Congreso, sobre el Estado Natural, Politico, y Civil de su dicha Provincia, y las del Nuevo Reyno de Leon, nuevo Santander, y los Texas, con exposition de los defectos del systema general, y particular de sus gobiernos, y de las Reformas, y nuevos establecimientos que necessitan para su prosperidad. Cadiz: En la imprenta de D. José Maria Guerrero, calle de el Emperador numero 191 : año de 1812. pp. 60. 4to. F.

My researches to secure the U. S. edition have proved fruitless: hence I give the title of the original Spanish, of which I lately came in possession.

BANDOLE, ABBE—November, 1781. Address delivered to Congress, the Supreme Executive Council, and the Assembly of Pennsylvania, etc., etc., who were invited by His Excellency the Minister of France, to attend in the Roman Catholic Church of Philadelphia, during the celebration of Divine Service, and thanksgiving for the capture of Lord Cornwallis. Carey's American Museum, Vol. IV., July, 1788, pp. 28 and 30, and the Catholic Church in the U. S., p. 217, where the name is spelt Bandale.

1837. Jan. 24. A Plea for the Poor: An Enquiry How far the charges against them of Improvidence, Idleness, and Dissipation are founded in Truth. | Quotations. | By a Citizen of Philadelphia. (Fifth Edition.) Philadelphia: GRATUITOUS. N.B. Three editions of this pamphlet (1,250 copies) have been published and distributed gratuitously at the expense of the author. The fourth, 250 copies, was published at the expense of a benevolent citizen of Philadelphia; the present edition, the 5th, also 250 copies, is published at the expense of a respectable Catholic clergyman of Baltimore.

pp. 16. Svo. F.

CAREY'S?—A Vindication of the Early History of Ireland. This pamphlet in my possession has no title-page, ends with p. 24, at the bottom whereof it is written "121 pages missing."

CAREY, WILLIAM—

of the Small Farmers, p. 19, where W. C. is also quoted as the "author of the Critique on the Painting of Death on the Pale Horse," and as "Honorary Correspondent of the Royal Institute of France, etc., etc." v. supra, p. 292.

CARROLL, BISHOP—"Liberality. At the annual artillery election dinner in Boston, the 6th inst. [June, 1791], the blessing was asked by the rev. dr. Parker, a Protestant Episcopalian, and thanks returned by the right rev. Bishop Carroll, a Roman Catholic." Carey's Am. Mus., 1791, Vol. IX., App. iii., p. 43.

CASA, MONSIEUR G. DE LA—Abp. of Benevento. Galateo; or, A Treatise on Politeness and Delicacy of Manners; from the Italian of Monsig., etc. Also, The Honor of the Table, with the whole art of carving; illustrated with a variety of cuts. | Quot. from Chesterfield. | Baltimore: Printed for George Hill. B. Edes, Printer. 1811. 24mo. Translator's pref. xiii. Casa's Text, 183. Additions, 185-274. F.

CHALLONER. Pensez-y-Bien; ou, Reflexions sur les Quatre Fins Dernieres. Nouvelle édition, augmentée d'un Chapitre sur la Devotion à la Sainte Vierge, de plusieurs histoires édifiantes, de paroles [sic], de prières devant la sainte Messe, et d'une table des matières très étendue. Tolle et Lege. Prenez et Lisez. A New York: De l'Imprimerie de J. Desnoues, No. 7, Murray Street. Permissu Superiorum. An 1814. pp. 336. 14mo. G. T. C.

At p. 87, I have doubtfully ascribed to Bp. Challoner. The Grounds, etc. Since I have come across "Grounds of the Old Religion; or, General Arguments in favour . . . Controversialists, modestly proposed to the Consideration of his countrymen. By the Ven. and R. R. Richard Challoner, D.D., Bishop of Debra, V. A. L. Thus sayeth The Fifth edition. London: Printed by J. P. Coughlan, Duke-Street, Governor-Square. M,DCC,XCVIII. pp. 50. Brief Account of the Life of Dr. R. Ch., by Rev. J. Milner, F.S.A. p. iv. Preface. Text 1-230, and Contents.

— At p. 109, note to England's Conversion—Is not this the work of Bp. Challoner? Milner in his Life mentions that C. was the author of The Young Gentleman instructed in the Grounds of the Christian Religion. If this is the work mentioned above, the query in the note is herewith answered in the negative, of course.

O'CONNOR (p. 212): Impartial History. . . . Belfast: Reprinted by Joseph Smyth. 1815.

CUNNINGHAM, LETITIA.—“The Case of the Whigs, who loaned their money on the Public Faith, Fairly stated,” including a Memento for Congress to review their engagements, and to establish the Honour and Honesty of the United States of America. Phila.: Francis Bailey. 1783. pp. 51. 12mo.

[Some not only suggest but maintain that L. C. was a Catholic, but I can find no records. A well-instructed non-Catholic bookseller in New York informs me that for a time she entered a convent in Europe.]

FAIRCLOUGH.—An address delivered before the Hibernian Society of Alexandria, D. C., in St. Mary's Church, on St. Patrick's Day, the 17th March, 1825, by the Rev. Jos. W. F., A.M. (Chaplain). Join with your pious brotherly love, and with brotherly love charity. 2 Epis. Peter, 1 chap., v. 5-7. Published by order of the Society. Alexandria: Printed by Henry Pittman. 1825. p. 16. 12mo. F.

[In 1817 was published in London the following: “On the Rule of Faith: in Reply to Mr. Joseph Fletcher, Minister of the Independents at Blackburn, and Author of the Lectures on the Roman Catholic Religion. By Joseph Fairclough, 'Si ignoras, disce: si nosti, erubescere.' Optatus Melivctanus bib. sec. contra Parmenianum. London: Sold by Keating & Co., Duke-street. Grosvenor Square, etc. pp. 31, 8vo. F.

On the last page, unnumb'd, we read: "On the Infallibility of the Church, by the same Author, in Reply to Mr. Fletcher's Lectures, will be published toward the end of June, or early in July. It is said that this is the same Mr. F. who came to this country with R. Baxter, S.J. (v. supra), only a deacon. Mr. Fairclough, after being ordained, was stationed in Alexandria, Va., where his name is still honored. He remained there until 1831 (?), when his successor, taking charge of the place, submitted the late incumbent to very ignominious treatment. I think Mr. F. subsequently returned to England. v. Baxter, p. 29.

FIELD, M.—Oakey Hall, in his Manhattaner in New Orleans, has some items, I am told, relating to M. Field.

GASTON, JUDGE, vindicated from the charge of perjury in taking office under the Constitution of N. C. Bp. England's Works, IV. 103, seqq. The charge was preferred by Rev. Rob. Breckenridge, of Baltimore.

GOTHER.—P. 133. Bishop Challoner published an Abridgment of the Papist, etc. Gother was Chaplain to R. Holman, Esq., at Warkworth, in Northamptonshire, and there the boy Milner lived also with him.

HAROLD, REV. W. V.—

The concluding remarks of Dr. Harold's sermon (v. supra, p. 136) have been transcribed by Rev. James Fitton into his Sketches of the Establishment of the Churches in New England. Boston: P. Donahoe. 1872. pp. 111-116.

HAY. An Abridgment of Christian Doctrine. By the Rt. Rev. Ep.—With some alterations in the language. Published with the approbation of the Right Rev. Bp. Carroll. Printed for B. Dornin, and sold by him at his Roman Catholic Library, No. 30, Baltimore Street, Baltimore. Geo. Dobbin & Murphy, Printers. 1809. pp. 108. 24mo. G. T. C.

Hoganiana. p. 173. The titles of pamphlets published on the Hogan schism and given in the Text amount to one hundred and forty-two.

Imitation, The, of the Bl. Virgin. supra, p. 176. In the Catholic World for July, 1872, at p. 569, this work is credited to Fr. Francis Arias, a holy and learned Spanish Jesuit.

KEWLEY, JOHN.—

An Enquiry into the Validity of Methodist Episcopacy, with an Appendix containing two original Documents never before published. By an Episcopalian of the State of Maryland. Wilmington: Printed by Joseph Jones, for the Author. 1807.

Title, verso blank. Epistle dedicatory, 4 pp. to iv. Text, 5-68. Appendix, 10 pp. without folios.

[While Rector of St. George's Church, N. Y., Mr. Kewley became a Catholic, went to Europe and entered a religious order. J. G. Shea. v. Sketches of the Church in N. E., by Rev. J. Fitton. Boston: P. Donahoe. 1872. pp. 283, where the name is spelt KEELY.]

LARZELIERE [?], I.—[A Catholic Priest at Mount Holly, near Philadelphia, about A.D. 1800—said to have published something. My inquiries from a Rev. official in Phila. resulted in the information that “no records go back as far as 1800. Mount Holly was in the Diocese of Philadelphia.” v. Howlet, p. 174.]

O THELOS!

And now I lay down my pen. The rack on which my mind has been since I issued the circular (July 31, 1871!) can be imagined only by inspecting the heap of letters received—some encouraging, others discouraging—some even charging me with treading on the corns of the writers who “had intended,” and actually “planned,” aye.—had “collected materials,” etc., etc.

I PARVE LIBER.

PLEASE, kind readers, brothers, bookworms, and all of that ilk, send me corrections, and castigations, that I may publish them all (with proper acknowledgments) in the Second Part, so continuously paged in Arabic numbers as to make them of easy binding with this volume.

The Lord help us! but by-and-by we shall yet get a (sublunary) perfect Bibliography that will stand a monument to the fact that no other converted nation can exhibit such a noble record of earnest endeavors to publish works calculated to create a healthy Christian spirit. The Catholic literature in the United States previous to 1820, scanty as it may appear, must be allowed to have been in advance of the money-making, sickly, riding-on-both-sides-of-the-fence efforts of more recent dates. Mathew Carey was wrong in publishing all kinds of works—albeit, there are allowances to be made in his favor; and it would be unjust to look upon him as the prototype of wishy-washy modern Catholic publishers or book-sellers. Bernard Dornin was the prototype of the true and honest Catholic publisher. Had Dornin lived hiscæ temporibus, he'd die of starvation—he was too honest.

The reader is at perfect liberty to agree or not to agree with these remarks. Yet “To be or not to be; that's the question,”

AND,

FINIS CORONAT OPUS!

VALETE!
